Campaign Gets Hotter Over U.S.

Ives Asks More Cash To Jobless

Would Propose It To '55 Legislature

Batavia, Oct. 15 (AP)—Sen. Irving M. Ives called today for action by the 1955 Legislature to step up benefits for the jobless and to extend unemployment insurance to more workers.

Ives, the Republican candidate for governor, promised in a speech prepared for delivery here that if elected he would "make this one of my first recommendations" to the lawmakers.

The senator's pledge to labor—and a handful of other promises—came in the wake of his own declaration that the GOP must "wake up" and get out the vote upstate or lose the coming election. But he voiced confidence in a Republican victory.

IVES PREDICTED to approximately 300 persons at a rally in Jamestown last night that "Tammany Hall will get a sizeable majority" in New York city despite efforts he plans to wage a vigorous fight there.

"Unless we get the vote out in upstate New York we're not going to win this election," he said. Spelling it out for the Republicans, he called for drives to win rural and upstate labor ballots on Nov. 2.

SO FAR AS LABOR is concerned, he continued, "I've probably done as much for labor as any public servant that ever held office in the state of New York."

Ives left other promises with the electorate as he entered the third day of a seven-day upstate tour by chartered bus. His schedule today called for talks here, and at Medina, Lockport, Lackawanna, Hamburg and Buffalo.

LAST NIGHT the senator laid down a seven-point labor program in a filmed speech telecast over the Columbia Broadcasting System. Besides increased benefits for the jobless, he promised:

To continue and enlarge the state's public works program; to try to wipe out unemployment "without leaf-raking and make-work programs"; to continue the march of progress labor has enjoyed in this state;" to "keep my door open" to talk over labor problems; and to continue the state probe of union welfare funds.

AT OLEAN he pledged himself if elected to move immediately "to start the machinery for a great thruway across the southern tier." Later he said at Jamestown "we've got to have" three other proposed express highways in areas untouched by

Associated Press Reporters Declare Situation Is Spotty, However

Washington, Oct. 15 (AP)—The political campaign is getting hotter. The candidates are raising their voices and extending their cruising range. But what do the voters think about all the shouting?

Until recently, at least, they have taken it with remarkable calm.

Some political professionals, admittedly with an ax to grind, say apathy has been sloughing off in the past few days.

The Republicans say President Eisenhower's Oct. 8 call for a GOP Congress gave their campaign a shot in the arm. The Democrats say the only apathy they find is among Republicans.

ASSOCIATED PRESS political reporters touring the country, however, find there still is no hot public interest in the campaign — whatever its final 2½ weeks may bring—except here and there, where special issues or unusual situations have arisen.

"The 1954 campaign is a play without a villian and the comedy isn't even to good slapstick," says the AP Don Whitehead. "The politicians are working hard to keep the audience awake, but everybody seems pretty sure nothing exciting will happen in the next act, either."

Much the same appraisal—voter apathy, except in certain areas where unemployment or other issues stir interest—comes from other traveling AP men—Douglas B. Cornell, Relman Morin, Jack Bell and Morrie Landsberg.

All their reports came in before there was time to assess the possible effect of Secretary of Defense Wilson's now famous remark about bird dogs and kennel-fed dogs.

Boycott Is Expected At Milford

Delaware Rules On School Issue

Wilmington, Del., Oct. 15 (AP)—A boycott of Milford, Del., schools by white students, repeating a tense racial situation which occurred here several days ago, appears in the offing once again.

The state of Delaware paved the way yesterday for the readmission—legally—of 10 Negro students to the formerly all white combined elementary-high school. The school has a registration of 1,562 pupils, including 686 white high school students.

Vice Chancellor William Marvel ruled that the Negro students "have a clear legal right" to attend the Milford School. His statement precedes a formal order by the Court of Chancery, expected next week.

MARVEL'S RULING was followed by a statement from Bryant Bowles, president of the National Assn. for the Advancement of White People (NAAWP), strong opponents of integrated schools.

"When the Negroes walk in (to the Milford School), the whites will walk out," he said. "I'm sure of that. Marvel has reserved the school for the Negroes. I think that about all he'll have in the school is the 10 Negroes. . . ."

That seemed to make it definite Bowles' band of followers would again urge a boycott of the Milford School. The Negro students had been integrated for three weeks of the fall term, until a boycott cut attendance to a third of normal and resulted in the resignation of the Milford school board. A new board ordered the return of the Negro students to an all-Negro school in Dover, Del.

BOWLES ALREADY is under arrest on charges of conspiring to violate Delaware's compulsory school attendance law in connection with the boycott last month. He is under $6,000 bond on the charges, filed last Sunday at the

To Alter Hurley School

Addition Carries By 269-104 Vote

Voters of Hurley's Union Free School District No. 4 on Thursday night approved by a vote of more than two to one propositions to construct an addition to their school building and to purchase an additional tract of land.

The proposal to authorize the board of education to construct and equip an addition to the existing school building in the hamlet of Hurley at an estimated cost of $196,000 was approved by a vote of 269 to 104.

A second proposition, authorizing the board to acquire as an additional school site a tract of land adjacent to the present school site, resulted in a vote of 278 in favor and 92 opposed.

A TOTAL OF 376 votes was cast. Three ballots were declared void.

Although approval of Proposition 1 authorized the board to issue bonds up to $196,000 in anticipation of tax levy, possibilities were seen in action of the board taken this week that the actual total cost may not reach that figure. The board adopted a resolution to the effect that no more than $170,000 would be spent for the erection and equipping of the addition, and that if bids received were in excess of an amount set by the board, they may be rejected.

THE ADDITION, plans as prepared by Architect Harry Halverson, call for three classrooms, a kindergarten room and an all-purpose room. The preliminary plans have been approved by the State Education Department.

The board will advertise for bids after more detailed plans and specifications are obtained from the architect.

Case Promises Reply Over Bella V. Dodd Statement

Newark, N. J., Oct. 15 (AP)—The headquarters of Clifford P. Case announced today that the Republican candidate for U. S. Senate is preparing a full statement and television broadcast in connection with a newspaper story mentioning his sister, Miss Adelaide Case.

The brief headquarters announcement did not say when or where the statement would be made, nor when the television broadcast is scheduled.

Case, who last night canceled three campaign appearances without explanation, is scheduled to address a luncheon of the Essex County Women's Republican Club, in East Orange, today.

THE CANDIDATE has been in a round of conferences with top GOP officials since Wednesday night.

The statement issued by the Case Headquarters said:

"Since yesterday morning, Mr. Case has been devoting his full time to investigating allegations against one of his sisters attributed to Miss Bella Dodd. He is preparing a full statement and arrangements are being made for television time at the earliest possible moment so Mr. Case can present the facts as he knows them to all the people of New Jersey.

Continued efforts to reach Miss Case for comment have been unsuccessful.

In its Thursday editions, the Newark-Star Ledger quoted Bella V. Dodd as saying she once knew an Adelaide Case in several groups which purportedly were Communist fronts. Miss Dodd was further quoted by the newspaper as saying the woman was not a Communist party member.

CASE WAS NOT available for comment on the cancellations of his three speeches.

Miss Dodd, who has appeared as a government witness in various federal loyalty probes, is a former member of the national committee of the Communist party.

After the newspaper story appeared, Miss Dodd told newsmen she did not know whether the Adelaide Case she referred to was related to the senatorial candidate.

And Case issued a brief statement which read in its entirety:

"I have seen the story in the Newark Star-Ledger. This is gutter politics at its worst. My political enemies have shown they will stop at nothing in their effort to destroy me and my family. It will be answered fully."

The New York Herald Tribune quotes what it calls a report from a ranking Republican as saying "There is a strong possibility this is a case of mistaken identity . . ."

A SISTER of Case, Adelaide, 42, is a physical education instructor at the exclusive Kingswood School at Cranbrook, Mich. near Detroit.

Wilson Goes Back to Work, Hopes Campaigning Done

Washington, Oct. 15 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson, avowedly hopeful he is done campaigning, returned to the capital last night with echoes of his now-famous remark about dogs still in the political air.

Two of his best-known critics voiced satisfaction at the outcome of the incident, but the Moscow radio seized on Wilson's remarks and berated him as a cynical "capitalist."

And Sen. Sparkman of Alabama, Democratic vice presidential nominee in 1952, disputed the contention of Wilson and other high Republican figures that the whole flurry stemmed from a distorted interpretation.

SPARKMAN SAID in a statement that critics didn't need to distort the secretary's words—"They do the damage. No interpretation is needed."

At a Detroit news conference on Monday, Wilson had been speaking of the problem of unemployment, and he said:

". . . I've got a lot of sympathy for people where a sudden change catches 'em—but I've always liked bird dogs better than kennel-fed dogs. You know, one who'll get out and hunt for food rather than sit on his fanny and yell."

A STORM of criticism followed, some of it from Republicans, and in a speech at Chicago, Wednesday night, Wilson said he was sorry that he had "made a mistake — an unfortunate mistake—bringing up those bird dogs at the same time I was talking about people."

Gov William G. Stratton of Illinois, who had threatened to boycott the dinner at which Wilson spoke but later relented and introduced the secretary, said yesterday it was "magnificent work" for Wilson to say he had been wrong. Stratton said he did not think the incident would have any effect on the Nov. 2 congressional elections, but might have done so had it "dragged on."

Hazel Howls North After Carolina Blow

MARK OF STORM—Group of Haitian natives cluster near shore, at bottom, near Jeremie, town on southwest peninsula of island Republic hit hard by Hurricane Hazel Tuesday. At right center a tree is down, while tops of other trees were blown off by wind. Houses lost roofs and debris litters the area. The U. S. Navy sent doctors into Jeremie Thursday to help. HURRICANE PREPARATION—Workmen are busy in Providence, R. I., Thursday sandbagging a power company's main generating plant near the Providence River as word was received that the season's eighth hurricane might strike the area. (AP Wirephoto).

Millions In Damage Is Reported

Guard Units Sent To Wilmington

Wilmington, N. C., Oct. 15 (AP)—Hurricane Hazel, still packing winds of 100 miles an hour, smashed its way northward through eastern North Carolina today after wreaking havoc along 120 miles of the Carolinas coastline.

There were no immediate reports of serious casualties among the well-warned residents of the coast. Most of them sought safer quarters.

PROPERTY DAMAGE ran into millions of dollars as the storm tore up coastal installations, washed away houses and snarled communications. Heaviest damage was caused by towering waves generated by the windstorm.

It was moving north at about 27 miles an hour and the Weather Bureau said it gradually would lose force as it moved over the land across North Carolina, Virginia and into the North Atlantic States.

Hurricane and gale force winds will continue for some time, especially to the north and east of the center, the bureau warned. Rains will be heavy over all the states in advance of the storm.

GALES EXTEND about 250 miles east and 80 miles west of the center. All precautions should be taken against dangerous winds and extremely high tides until the hurricane has passed, the bureau continued. All storm warnings were removed south of Wilmington.

The North Carolina state highway patrol reported three freighters broke loose from their moorings at Wilmington and were moving down the Cape Fear river. It was feared they might strike highway bridges in their path.

Gov. William B. Umstead, from his sickbed in a Durham, N. C., hospital, ordered out three North Carolina National Guard units at the request of Wilmington's city manager.

IN RESPONSE to a radioed appeal from Mayor Ernest Williams of Myrtle Beach, a resort halfway up the South Carolina coast, Gov. James F. Byrnes ordered the Conway Tank Battalion to duty to prevent looting.

Strikes Are Discussed By Cabinet

Churchill Is After Walkout Solution

London, Oct. 15 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill today called his cabinet into meeting for the second time in 24 hours in an effort to find a solution to London's worsening strike troubles.

Sir Walter Monckton Minister of Labor conferred during the day with labor and management seeking some solution to the strike of 24,000 dock workers which has crippled the great port of London.

It was understood Monckton was not able to get to this afternoon's cabinet session.

THE STOPPAGE by 24,000 dockers and a walkout by more than 15,000 London bus drivers and conductors presented Britain with its worst potential labor crisis since the general strike of 1926. Another 8,000 ship repairmen also were idle in a separate unofficial stoppage.

The Communist Daily Worker cheered all the walkouts, calling for "the unity and solidarity of the working class."

The port of London tie-up, now in its 12th day, already is affecting food supplies. Imported eggs, butter and bacon are fast vanishing from stores in the metropolitan area. Industrial experts estimate between a fourth and a third of Britain's overseas trade is at a standstill.

THE STRIKERS say they will stay out until employers accept their main demand—that overtime work should be on a voluntary basis. The employers so far have refused to negotiate until the stevedores withdraw their

Manhattan Is on Alert

New York, Oct. 15 (AP)—The twice-hit North Atlantic seaboard kept an apprehensive eye on hurricane Hazel today and prepared for a lashing although apparently out of the storm's direct path.

The New York Weather Bureau said the hurricane should move through eastern Virginia this afternoon and into eastern Pennsylvania tonight.

IF HAZEL PASSES to the west of New York, the weather bureau said, she will be the first October hurricane to have done so since 1899.

Nevertheless, the metropolitan area was warned to be "leery" about it all.

"All precautions should be continued for the gail winds (40 to 60 miles an hour) heavy rain and high tides this afternoon and tonight," the warning said.

Predictions of torrential winds and abnormally high tides came also from the Boston Weather Bureau for the New England area, hard hit by two earlier blows this season.

ELECTRIC POWER installations came in for particular attention and emergency crews were put on a standby basis.

Heavy rainfall already was reported in southern New Jersey.

The coast guard, remembering how it almost lost a lightship off Vineyard Sound, New England, in the last hurricane, last night ordered a relief boat in from the five fathoms light station, off the southern tip of New Jersey. Mariners were notified of the move by radio.

The regular five fathoms lightship is in for repairs.

The navy ordered some ships to sea to ride out the anticipated storm, and air force planes were flown inland out of harm's way.

Whatever else its effect, Hazel seemed a good bet to wash out a collar-wilting spell of Indian summer.

Uptown Business Plans For Christmas Season

Although Indian Summer temperatures prevailed outside, members of the Kingston Uptown Business Men's Association met Thursday noon at Hoppey's restaurant to discuss Christmas lighting and discuss plans for the holiday season.

President Louis Kantrowitz presided at the meeting and in addition to the matter of Christmas lighting, co-operation with the Red Feather Community Chest program was discussed and the ever important problem of parking was under discussion.

A program of Christmas lighting which will uphold Kingston's traditional and outstanding reputation for being one of the best lighted cities during the holiday season was proposed and plans for financing the program.

"Kingston has enjoyed a reputation far and wide for a number of years for its beautiful lighting during the Christmas holiday season and we want to maintain that high standard or even improve it," said Kantrowitz in presenting the program to the executive committee at its Thursday noon meeting.

Harold Kantrowitz has consented to act as chairman of the lighting committee and will be assisted by George Schneider as asistant chairman. The committee will begin soliciting soon and statements will be sent to all members in an endeavor to ascertain how much the com-

Ulster Fuel Tax Share Is $84,311

Albany, Oct. 15—State Comptroller J. Raymond McGovern has announced the distribution of $3,429,101.62 in state motor fuel tax receipts to the 57 counties outside of New York city.

Ulster's share is $84,311.16. Delaware with $100,112.81 topped the other counties in this area. Dutchess got $63,137.42; Greene $46,521.76 and Orange $70,445.04.

The total is the share of state collected motor fuel tax for the three months ending September 30, 1954 which is being returned to the counties in accordance with the state highway law.

The sum of $3,244,099.54 was distributed for the same quarter in 1953.

The law provides that 10 per cent of the statewide collection of the state's four-cents-a-gallon gasoline tax is allotted to the counties on the proportional basis of county road and town highway mileage in each county. The money is earmarked by statute for deposit in the county road funds.

Uptown Business Plans For Christmas Season

Although Indian Summer temperatures prevailed outside, members of the Kingston Uptown Business Men's Association met Thursday noon at Hoppey's restaurant to discuss Christmas lighting and discuss plans for the holiday season.

President Louis Kantrowitz presided at the meeting and in addition to the matter of Christmas lighting, co-operation with the Red Feather Community Chest program was discussed and the ever important problem of parking was under discussion.

A program of Christmas lighting which will uphold Kingston's traditional and outstanding reputation for being one of the best lighted cities during the holiday season was proposed and plans for financing the program.

"Kingston has enjoyed a reputation far and wide for a number of years for its beautiful lighting during the Christmas holiday season and we want to maintain that high standard or even improve it," said Kantrowitz in presenting the program to the executive committee at its Thursday noon meeting.

Harold Kantrowitz has consented to act as chairman of the lighting committee and will be assisted by George Schneider as asistant chairman. The committee will begin soliciting soon and statements will be sent to all members in an endeavor to ascertain how much the com-

Millions In Damage Is Reported

Guard Units Sent To Wilmington

Wilmington, N. C., Oct. 15 (AP)—Hurricane Hazel, still packing winds of 100 miles an hour, smashed its way northward through eastern North Carolina today after wreaking havoc along 120 miles of the Carolinas coastline.

There were no immediate reports of serious casualties among the well-warned residents of the coast. Most of them sought safer quarters.

PROPERTY DAMAGE ran into millions of dollars as the storm tore up coastal installations, washed away houses and snarled communications. Heaviest damage was caused by towering waves generated by the windstorm.

It was moving north at about 27 miles an hour and the Weather Bureau said it gradually would lose force as it moved over the land across North Carolina, Virginia and into the North Atlantic States.

Hurricane and gale force winds will continue for some time, especially to the north and east of the center, the bureau warned. Rains will be heavy over all the states in advance of the storm.

GALES EXTEND about 250 miles east and 80 miles west of the center. All precautions should be taken against dangerous winds and extremely high tides until the hurricane has passed, the bureau continued. All storm warnings were removed south of Wilmington.

The North Carolina state highway patrol reported three freighters broke loose from their moorings at Wilmington and were moving down the Cape Fear river. It was feared they might strike highway bridges in their path.

Gov. William B. Umstead, from his sickbed in a Durham, N. C., hospital, ordered out three North Carolina National Guard units at the request of Wilmington's city manager.

IN RESPONSE to a radioed appeal from Mayor Ernest Williams of Myrtle Beach, a resort halfway up the South Carolina coast, Gov. James F. Byrnes ordered the Conway Tank Battalion to duty to prevent looting.

Strikes Are Discussed By Cabinet

Churchill Is After Walkout Solution

London, Oct. 15 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill today called his cabinet into meeting for the second time in 24 hours in an effort to find a solution to London's worsening strike troubles.

Sir Walter Monckton Minister of Labor conferred during the day with labor and management seeking some solution to the strike of 24,000 dock workers which has crippled the great port of London.

It was understood Monckton was not able to get to this afternoon's cabinet session.

THE STOPPAGE by 24,000 dockers and a walkout by more than 15,000 London bus drivers and conductors presented Britain with its worst potential labor crisis since the general strike of 1926. Another 8,000 ship repairmen also were idle in a separate unofficial stoppage.

The Communist Daily Worker cheered all the walkouts, calling for "the unity and solidarity of the working class."

The port of London tie-up, now in its 12th day, already is affecting food supplies. Imported eggs, butter and bacon are fast vanishing from stores in the metropolitan area. Industrial experts estimate between a fourth and a third of Britain's overseas trade is at a standstill.

THE STRIKERS say they will stay out until employers accept their main demand—that overtime work should be on a voluntary basis. The employers so far have refused to negotiate until the stevedores withdraw their

Ulster Fuel Tax Share Is $84,311

Albany, Oct. 15—State Comptroller J. Raymond McGovern has announced the distribution of $3,429,101.62 in state motor fuel tax receipts to the 57 counties outside of New York city.

Ulster's share is $84,311.16. Delaware with $100,112.81 topped the other counties in this area. Dutchess got $63,137.42; Greene $46,521.76 and Orange $70,445.04.

The total is the share of state collected motor fuel tax for the three months ending September 30, 1954 which is being returned to the counties in accordance with the state highway law.

The sum of $3,244,099.54 was distributed for the same quarter in 1953.

The law provides that 10 per cent of the statewide collection of the state's four-cents-a-gallon gasoline tax is allotted to the counties on the proportional basis of county road and town highway mileage in each county. The money is earmarked by statute for deposit in the county road funds.

Manhattan Is on Alert

New York, Oct. 15 (AP)—The twice-hit North Atlantic seaboard kept an apprehensive eye on hurricane Hazel today and prepared for a lashing although apparently out of the storm's direct path.

The New York Weather Bureau said the hurricane should move through eastern Virginia this afternoon and into eastern Pennsylvania tonight.

IF HAZEL PASSES to the west of New York, the weather bureau said, she will be the first October hurricane to have done so since 1899.

Nevertheless, the metropolitan area was warned to be "leery" about it all.

"All precautions should be continued for the gail winds (40 to 60 miles an hour) heavy rain and high tides this afternoon and tonight," the warning said.

Predictions of torrential winds and abnormally high tides came also from the Boston Weather Bureau for the New England area, hard hit by two earlier blows this season.

ELECTRIC POWER installations came in for particular attention and emergency crews were put on a standby basis.

Heavy rainfall already was reported in southern New Jersey.

The coast guard, remembering how it almost lost a lightship off Vineyard Sound, New England, in the last hurricane, last night ordered a relief boat in from the five fathoms light station, off the southern tip of New Jersey. Mariners were notified of the move by radio.

The regular five fathoms lightship is in for repairs.

The navy ordered some ships to sea to ride out the anticipated storm, and air force planes were flown inland out of harm's way.

Whatever else its effect, Hazel seemed a good bet to wash out a collar-wilting spell of Indian summer.

Kiwanis Hears Hettema Address

Robert Hettema, superintendent for the Turner-Campbell Construction Company on the IBM project here, was the speaker at the Thursday luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis Club at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Hettema, a Purdue University graduate, joined the Turner company in 1940, and was sent by that firm to Hawaii in the summer of 1941, being employed on projects there at the time of the Pearl Harbor attack of Dec. 7. He later entered service in a Seabee unit, returning to the Turner company after the war.

Most of Hettema's remarks concerned his experiences in Hawaii, in which he told of some of the large engineering projects there.

ON THE TOPIC of the current IBM project, Hettema revealed that construction is proceeding according to schedule. The contract calls for turning over to IBM the first 35,000 square feet of manufacturing space on January 1, and the completion date for the entire project is June 1, 1955. The project includes in total 250,000 square feet of manufacturing space, a two story office building, cafeteria, railroad siding, boiler house and disposal plant. The job will use approximately 1,500 tons of steel.

BIGGEST SQUEEZE—"Biggest piece of machinery ever built" is the distinction claimed for this 50,000-ton press being assembled for the Aluminum Co. of America plant in Cleveland, Ohio. The 50,000 refers to pressure, not weight. The press actually will weigh 4000 tons. It extends higher in the air than a seven-story building and goes almost four stories below ground level. It is marvelously accurate. Billets of metal weighing two or three tons can be put into the dies and the press will shape them to dimensions accurate to less than 1/32 of an inch. A building which covers 12 acres of ground had to be erected to house this huge machine and another, 35,000-ton one. The entire project will cost $40,000,000.

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

There is an old maxim in economics that a business cannot stand still: it either goes ahead or slips backward.

There have been and will be exceptions ("to prove the rule") but insofar as individual businesses are concerned there is a warning for management when forward progress stops. Obviously, considerations have to be given to the overall economic situation. An average business enterprise is not likely to forge ahead during economic slumps although here, too, there are always exceptions. Indeed, some of America's great enterprises were started in the midst of economic turmoil.

THE RUMINATOR brings up this subject for two reasons:

It is becoming difficult for some businesses, under the current inflationary type of prosperity, to control their costs and selling prices. Astute management is essential today. What might be termed "Yankee calculatin'" will see many a business through the coming ups and downs.

Secondly, we have to give thought to the general opinions now prevailing concerning the business outlook.

I THINK, if you boil down present opinions, you get a composite viewpoint that the outlook for business is one of "stability."

Thereby hangs several contrary thoughts.

Stability is a misleading term, when referring to general business conditions. Our economy has become so complex and intertwined that there is unlikely ever to be a period when all businesses are flourishing—or when all enterprises are "stable." (Unfortunately, when a deep depression occurs practically all business does suffer).

FOR EXAMPLE, certain "economic indicators" have been developed which are followed by economists. The President's Economic Council keeps close tabs on these indicators. When you come to analyze these pointers-to-the future you find that some appear to lead in the cycle, some run evenly, and some lag behind.

When you examine the fluctuations, or cycles, among various industries, you find some booming, some just rocking along, and others in a recession.

So when writers talk about "stability" you have to think in averages, not in terms of overall business. Your enterprise may be booming, or it may be depressed, during the so-called "stable era." Which is to say that regardless of the general terms used in business writing each of us needs always to look for "the contrary angles."

THERE IS ANOTHER contrary thought about "stability." The American economy cannot remain in a period of stability for long—or it will commence to slide backward (just as a business enterprise will slip if it doesn't push ahead).

The American economy, as we have said, is a highly complex organism. Indeed, it is so intertwined in its numerous ramifications—tie-ins of one industry with another—that it has to grow constantly or the "backlash" will cause bottlenecks and economic snarls. You may compare it to a traffic jam, where a single minor accident can tie up traffic for a hour. In business you have noted where a strike in a basic industry has brought production to a stop in many other factories—sometimes progress is halted all the way down the line to the retail store.

DURING THE SO-CALLED stable era it is obvious that activity is bound to slow up here and there, as time goes on. The fast runners push ahead, while the laggards drag their feet and lose ground. Before long, the mechanism of production and distribution gets snarled up. Then one of two things happen: Either business in general picks up, thereby getting traffic moving normaly again; or, everything slows down and we enter a recession.

Perhaps to some readers this may seem to be a rather dry and unnecessary recital for the Ruminator's column. However, I have ventured to think that considering the political outlook (which may alter business and public thinking) it may be helpful to business-minded readers to suggest these contrary thoughts which they may keep in mind as they read their usual trade and economic publications.

The value of contrary thinking lies in using it as an anti-dote to the general predictions found in the press. To repeat my pet slogan, "when everybody thinks alike, everyone is likely to be wrong."

BABSON on BUSINESS

Babson Park, Mass., Oct. 14—Almost everyone — including boosters for California, Arizona, and New Mexico—will agree that the Florida winter climate cannot be beat. Up to the present time, however, readers have heard no praise of Florida's industrial possibilities.

ANY STATE which lacks industries usually lacks available jobs. This means that before moving to Florida you had better arrange to have a check from a pension fund or from invested funds sent to you from the North each month. Don't go to Florida now without either money or a promised job. This may apply also to other states; but I know Florida, having spent thirty winters there.

The main reason Florida has lacked jobs is because it has lacked heavy industries. The main reason it has not held its own industrially is because of its lack of natural gas—absolutely essential for industries which require a large amount of heat. Only four of our forty-eight states are operating with this handicap.

THE FIRST ANSWER to this question is because natural gas has not been found as yet in Florida. It will be found some day; but when, no one knows. The second answer is that the constantly increasing demand for natural gas by the Carolinas, Georgia, Alabama, and other states lessens Florida's chances for supply by pipelines.

The situation has become worse since the big pipelines have been extended to the industrial East. These new pipelines mean more gas used at higher prices. This discourages the building of big pipelines into and through Florida to take natural gas into the state from states bordering Florida on the north.

THROUGH WORK being done by Willard L. Morrison, a famous engineer of Lake Forest, Illinois, supplemented by the work of the Florida Research Group, at Babson Park, Florida, I believe Florida will get a great supply of natural gas from Venezuela. This gas will be compressed at Venezuela—on the basis of 600 cubic feet of gas being made from one cubic foot of liquid gas.

This liquefied gas will be shipped in barges. They will be towed singly or in pairs from Venezuela to Tampa. The barges will be used for storage of the gas while it is being vaporized. Remember, one cubic foot of liquid gas will make 600 cubic feet of natural gas. Florida may well have the cheapest natural gas of any state.

Already Mr. Morrison is making contracts for sale of this liquefied gas to the stock yards of Chicago, after towing it from New Orleans up the Mississippi river. Yet, Florida is 2,000 miles nearer Venezuela than is Chicago. Yes, Florida is headed for a great industrial development.

WHEN THE CONDENSED liquid turns into gas, a tremendous amount of cold is produced. Mr. Morrison has selected the Chicago yards as his first customer instead of many other nearer cities because of the stock yards' demand for refrigeration.

But, certainly, Florida needs refrigeration as well as natural gas! It is needed not only to freeze citrus juices and to preserve other products, but to "cool the entire state in summer." If natural gas is discovered in Florida, or piped in, such gas will give the needed heat, but not the needed refrigeration. Liquefied gas, however, will provide both warmth in winter and coolness in summer, together with the terrific heat needed for industry throughout the year. For further details contact any Florida Gas Company.

Kiwanis Hears Hettema Address

Robert Hettema, superintendent for the Turner-Campbell Construction Company on the IBM project here, was the speaker at the Thursday luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis Club at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Hettema, a Purdue University graduate, joined the Turner company in 1940, and was sent by that firm to Hawaii in the summer of 1941, being employed on projects there at the time of the Pearl Harbor attack of Dec. 7. He later entered service in a Seabee unit, returning to the Turner company after the war.

Most of Hettema's remarks concerned his experiences in Hawaii, in which he told of some of the large engineering projects there.

ON THE TOPIC of the current IBM project, Hettema revealed that construction is proceeding according to schedule. The contract calls for turning over to IBM the first 35,000 square feet of manufacturing space on January 1, and the completion date for the entire project is June 1, 1955. The project includes in total 250,000 square feet of manufacturing space, a two story office building, cafeteria, railroad siding, boiler house and disposal plant. The job will use approximately 1,500 tons of steel.

BIGGEST SQUEEZE—"Biggest piece of machinery ever built" is the distinction claimed for this 50,000-ton press being assembled for the Aluminum Co. of America plant in Cleveland, Ohio. The 50,000 refers to pressure, not weight. The press actually will weigh 4000 tons. It extends higher in the air than a seven-story building and goes almost four stories below ground level. It is marvelously accurate. Billets of metal weighing two or three tons can be put into the dies and the press will shape them to dimensions accurate to less than 1/32 of an inch. A building which covers 12 acres of ground had to be erected to house this huge machine and another, 35,000-ton one. The entire project will cost $40,000,000.

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

There is an old maxim in economics that a business cannot stand still: it either goes ahead or slips backward.

There have been and will be exceptions ("to prove the rule") but insofar as individual businesses are concerned there is a warning for management when forward progress stops. Obviously, considerations have to be given to the overall economic situation. An average business enterprise is not likely to forge ahead during economic slumps although here, too, there are always exceptions. Indeed, some of America's great enterprises were started in the midst of economic turmoil.

THE RUMINATOR brings up this subject for two reasons:

It is becoming difficult for some businesses, under the current inflationary type of prosperity, to control their costs and selling prices. Astute management is essential today. What might be termed "Yankee calculatin'" will see many a business through the coming ups and downs.

Secondly, we have to give thought to the general opinions now prevailing concerning the business outlook.

I THINK, if you boil down present opinions, you get a composite viewpoint that the outlook for business is one of "stability."

Thereby hangs several contrary thoughts.

Stability is a misleading term, when referring to general business conditions. FOR SAFER DRIVING

In a small publication called "Research Trends" safety authority Alvin C. Smith recently posed—and, answered—a highly important question. If his answer should prove correct, it will have an effect on the life-spans of many thousands of persons.

The question is basically this: Since all sorts of fragile merchanise can be safely packaged in shipping containers, why can't you and your family be "safely packaged" in automobiles?

Smith, for one, believes that you can. And he and a number of others are now working hard to prove it.

It seems to be rather clear, he says, that attempts to reduce our highway deaths by cutting down on the accident total have not been a great success.

Stricter laws, improvements in roads, safety campaigns and similar weapons surely have been of help.

But the death toll continues to climb.

Since we still haven't found a way to drastically cut the "frequency" of accidents, the approach we are turning to now is to try to cut the "effects" of accidents.

Or to use the language of Smith: We must "safer package" the human body so that, when an accident does occur, the body is well protected.

This, he says, can be done two ways:

1. By changing the car's interior to lessen the number of hazards. (A person killed in an auto crash usually strikes his head on a lethal object inside the car.)

2. By the use of so-called "body restraints," such as seat belts and special crash bars, which prevent the head from hitting these hazards, or lessen the force of the blow.

Results of research so far have been rated "extremely encouraging." They seem to promise a day, says Smith, when deaths resulting from auto crashes will be classed as a rare occurrence.

Safety experts agree, however, that unless the public supports such work the day may be slow in arriving. To give our bodies the needed protection, the manufacturers of cars will have to make major changes in their present basic designs. And when these changes will come, it is warned, will depend on how soon we demand them.

If this is true, then let's start demanding. And a sensible way to begin is to urge the adoption of seat belts.

Seat belts are not uncomfortable. They would not require a change in present design of our autos. According to several studies, they could drastically cut the death toll. Yet we still haven't taken action to have them widely installed.

The reason given most often—that there may be some public resistance—seems like a lame excuse. If every make of automobiles made the belts standard equipment, they soon would become accepted. Or the states could require them by law, as they now do tail-lights and such.

Here is an excellent safety project for clubs and for individuals. Buy such belts and install them yourselves. Write some letters to auto firms — write to public officials.

It's been said many times before, but the life you save may (could) be your own.

TIME TABLE FOR PRISON

The old saying that crime does not pay is being well demonstrated in Philadelphia. It shows that cooperation between citizens and the police can get results.

When the hoodlums picked on American Stores, a chain system, they chose the wrong victim. William Park, president of of the company, went to work with the police. Convictions and executions were the result for armed hold-ups and murder in the past two years.

The recent record shows the kind of summary justice that is discouraging a new crop of would-be gangsters. From July 7, 1954 to July 27 inclusive, a wave of armed hold-ups occurred in five American Company stores. By August 10, all bandits had been arrested. Thus, within 35 days the five hold-ups were solved, identifications established, confessions recorded, hearings held, and evidence prepared for the district attorney.

Determined cooperation between the victims of attacks and the police, results in free tickets to the penitentiary, plus reserved seats.

Make it your business to help the authorities apprehend law-breakers.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

DEFINITIONS

So many words have crept into our language which men use differently that I thought I might make a glossary to aid those readers who like such things. It all started with someone calling me an arch-reactionary which means nothing to me as a label, for I am neither a reactionary nor arch. Then a fellow I once tried to help out of a hole said that I pontificated which is probably true but I had no idea what he meant. He had undoubtedly read a weekly magazine's description of me as the high priest of anti-Communism and the words, high priest and pontiff, might be interchangeable, if there is any reason for it. And I presume that a pontiff pontificates, but how does he do it? Is it by word of mouth to which anyone is free not to listen or on the tuba from which one escapes with greater difficulty?

Let us look at some of these terms:

Reactionary—Plain: A fellow who believes that in the 8,000 or 9,000 years of recorded human history, something happened before 1933 that is worth while.

Reactionary—Arch: One who believes the same, only more so.

Republican—Plain: A fellow who, when he thinks of it, votes for Republican candidates for public office.

Republican—Liberal: A Republican who prefers the New Deal but finds it socially, economically and politically more advantageous to use the Republican label.

Republican—Eisenhower: A Republican, Democrat, New Dealer or arch-reactionary who believes that President Eisenhower is the greatest President since Harry Truman and that his success is assured.

Republican—Taft: An old-timer with some memories of Harding, Coolidge and Hoover who wanted Robert A. Taft to be nominated in 1952 and never got over it.

Right Wing: Don't know what it means.

Middle-of-the-Road: Ditto.

I am particularly perturbed about the middle-of-the-road because if it is impossible to define with precision what is right wing or left, how does one find the middle?

McCarthyism: A Congressional investigation of Communists by incorrect methods. In France, this definition would fit Duclos's objections to the French government investigating Soviet spies. In the United States, the National Committee for an Effective Congress has tried to confuse McCarthyism with Hitler with little success. The Watkins Committee limits itself to defining it as a Senator who is a boor and who says about other Senators in public what they say about each other in private—also about some generals.

Fascist: A fellow who disagrees with the New Deal but it not a Communist. The term may be applied to anyone, particularly to a Son and Daughter of the American Revolution and to one who believes that the United States can get along without the United Nations.

Democrat: Plain: One who is acustomed to vote for the Democratic Party.

Democrat—Southern: A Democrat living south of the Mason-Dixon line, who is emotionally conditioned not to vote for a Republican even when he prefers to. This tradition he has broken only for Hoover and Eisenhower with regrets.

Democrat—New Dealer: An adherent of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Democrat—Fair Dealer: An adherent of Harry Truman.

A.D.A. (Americans for Democratic Action): Fabian Socialists who support the Democrats but also infiltrate the Republicans.

Communist: A member of the Communist Party, U.S.A., disciplined by the Communist International and accepting the Marxist-Leninist principles of history, sociology and economics. He is now illegal.

Fellow Traveler: One who accepts Communist discipline but does not join the party.

Innocent: One who goes along but does not know why.

RHEUMATIC FEVER IN MEN

Although there has been much literature and study given to rheumatic fever in children because it is known as childhood's greatest enemy, there have been few studies of the disease in adults. Now, however, we have a report based on the study of male veterans of World War 2 who had an attack of rheumatic fever during military service and who were observed four to eight years afterward. This investigation was supported by the Veterans Administration with advice from the National Research Council.

In this study the following aims were kept in mind: (1) the extent to which rheumatic heart disease follows rheumatic fever in adults; and (2) the possible late effect of rheumatic fever on the joints; and (3) the effect on physical capacity and the possible effect on job or educational adjustments.

One hundred and thirty-five patients were examined and studied. All were young men of an average age of 22. The great majority were Army enlisted veterans who, like all members of the armed forces, had been screened to some extent on enlistment so that no one with obvious rheumatic heart disease had been allowed to enlist.

What was found from this study? Thirty-two (23.7%) of the 135 patients were judged to have rheumatic heart disease but in all but five these signs were limited to heart murmurs. However, the number of patients who complained of symptoms thought due to the heart, including fatigue, breathlessness, pain in the chest and palpitation, was much higher than this.

It was felt that because there was such a difference in the number of complaints as compared with the actual number of cases of rheumatic heart disease, many of these men had become extremely "heart conscious." Soreness and stiffness of the joints for as long as six years after apparent recovery was quite common. These two symptoms were most common in early spring and after physical inactivity and were aggravated by weather changes. However physical and X-ray examination of the joints were normal.

The vast majority of these patients were able to resume normal lives; 95 per cent were gainfully employed or in school at the time of the follow up study. No instance of serious disability due to the rheumatic fever was observed.

These are cheering figures and confirm what has been thought previously that there is a much better outlook for the patient when rheumatic fever first occurs during adult life rather than in childhood.

THE RECENT operation on Ike's first Secretary of Labor Martin Durkin, sent the White House into a small flap. When it was announced that Durkin was to undergo surgery, someone in the Executive Mansion raised the question as to whether Durkin had ever picked up the chair he had used as a member of the cabinet after he resigned, as is the custom.

With most of the White House staff at Denver nobody appeared to know. Someone called his office—he is president of the United Association of Journeymen and Apprentices of the Plumbing and Pipefitting Industry of the United States and Canada—and got the report there was no cabinet chair there.

There ensued a long and frantic search at the White House and still no chair was to be found. Finally the White House called the Durkin home, and to the relief of everyone discovered that he had taken it home and was using it at his dining room table.

THERE WAS A high old time at the Department of Commerce when veteran employes there threw a party for former President Hoover, who had the Commerce building built during his administration.

When he left the White House the Democrats dubbed the building "Hoover's Folly," and partly because of that, Hoover admitted, he had only been in the structure three times since 1928. "For 20 years the place never seemed very friendly," he recalled.

When Hoover was told that 871 employes in the Commerce auditorium had been there when he was Secretary of Commerce he said, "Those of you who weathered the storm obviously have unusual merits.

"When I first went to work there," Hoover related, "I was told that it was the easiest job in government, that all I had to do was put the fish to bed and turn on the lights along the coast."

He was referring to the aquarium the department has maintained and the lighthouse service which used to be in Commerce.

Nathan D. Goldon, one of the veteran employes who had been there under Hoover recalled:

"I will never forget when Mr. Hoover came out of the building, saw a bum walking by and gave him $2."

DRY ICE HAS entered the cold war against communism. The Crusade for Freedom's new balloon-borne leaflet campaign now saturating Hungary, employs a recently unveiled technique to drop anti-Red leaflets with pinpoint accuracy.

Suspended from each of the plastic balloons is a wire frame fitted with two carriers, one above the other in a ferris-wheel-like arrangement. The lower carrier is filled with dry ice which evaporates after eight hours, causing the leaflet-laden upper carrier to invert because of its greater weight and spill the printed matter from an altitude of 30,000 feet.

"Liquid Assets" Extraordinary!

A lake covered with money. During World War 2, the Nazi Government of Germany manufactured dollar and pound notes of high denomination in Ebensee, Upper Austria. When the Nazis realized that the war was lost they packed up all machinery and notes and fled. When their escape was cut off they dumped the trucks into Lake Traun, Upper Austria. Within a few days the action of the water loosened the bundles. As far as the eye could see the surface of the lake was covered with multicolored pound and dollar bills. Millions were floating and were eagerly snapped up by the natives.

Federal Trial Brings Amazing Example of Existing Prejudices as Anti-Reds Concerned

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Oct. 15 — When the government presents a case to a federal court, it is entitled to a fair trial, and the judge who tries the case is usually obligated to disqualify himself if he has previously expressed an opinion adverse to either party in the case.

This is the rule and the custom in American jurisprudence. Yet it is an amazing example of the prejudices that exist today where anti-Communist controversies are involved to find the U. S. attorney himself under attack when he asks for the disqualification of a judge.

There should be no surprise that the propriety of Judge Youngdahl sitting as a judge in the case of Owen Lattimore—indicted for denying under oath that he was a "promoter of Communist interests" — is being questioned by Leo Rover, U. S. attorney. At the time the first ruling was handed down more than 18 months ago, this writer reported the reaction among many members of the bar to the Youngdhal decision and particularly to the judge's gratuitious comments which had nothing to do with the indictments he was passing on but had a lot to do with revealing his tendency to pass judgment on the merits of the case itself even though no testimony had as yet been presented.

On May 6, 1953, this correspondent wrote in a Washington dispatch as follows:

"When U. S. District Judge Luther Youngdahl—the former governor of Minnesota who was appointed by President Truman in a political maneuver that caused quite a flurry in Republican ranks in the northwest—threw out four of seven counts in the indictment against Owen Lattimore, quite a lot of curiosity and puzzlement was aroused in legal circles here. For the judge was not content to dismiss the four counts but in his written opinion said there was 'serious doubt in the court's mind whether any count in this indictment can finally pass the test of materiality.'

"The curiosity arises because it is being asked: How can a federal judge who has expressed doubt about the three remaining counts in an indictment give a fair trial to the government of the United States in prosecuting the case when he has already prejudged the issues? Wouldn't a juror be disqualified if he expressed publicly such doubts before a trial took place?

"There is some question also as to whether Judge Youngdahl has as yet been finally assigned to the Lattimore case for trial but, if he has been, then it would not be surprising if the government asked that another judge be assigned in view of this prejudgment.

"Judge Youngdahl's opinion arouses puzzlement not because of the things he said but the things he apparently omitted to say or to take into account in his formal opinion.

"Thus, although it wasn't necessary for Judge Youngdahl to do so to make his point, he declared that the Tydings Committee of the Senate had investigated the charges against Owen Lattimore and 'concluded there was no foundation to the charges against him.' One would have thought in all fairness that the Judge would have taken cognizance of the investigation made by a second Senate Committee under the chairmanship of Senator McCarran of Nevada, which also investigated the same charges and spent an even longer time doing it and then came up with the conclusion that Owen Lattimore was 'a conscious, articulate instrument of the Soviet conspiracy in the United States.' To state the conclusion of one committee and omit the conclusion of the other committee is to cause more puzzlement.

"The only reference that Judge Youngdahl makes to the McCarran committee report is to say that 'apparently the committee could discover no evidence from its investigation of the testimony of the various witnesses that defendant lied in denying that he was a Communist, a member of the Communist party, a Soviet spy or a fellow traveler.'

"Here is an attempt by the judge to evaluate the Senate Committee's work and yet, so far as conclusions are concerned, he apparently ignores the fact that the Senate Committee did ask the Department of Justice to submit the perjury charges to a federal grand jury and did point to specific contradictions which, in its judgment, merited attention. Is it the duty of a Senate Committee to submit all its evidence of alleged perjury before the trial begins or is it the duty of the Justice Department to do so during the trial itself?

"Judge Youngdahl did say, with reference to the three counts that remained for trial, that 'the question of materiality, like the question of pertinency, is a question of law for the court to decide when the government's evidence is in or at the conclusion of all the testimony.'

"But if that's to be the procedure, then why did Judge Youngdahl feel it necessary, even without hearing any evidence, to cast doubt on the counts in the indictment left to be tried? This and other questions are being asked as the case is being discussed among lawyers here, some of whom say the Youngdahl decision is quite unprecedented."

Notwithstanding the reaction to the case in May 1953, it is being asserted now in rebuttal to U. S. Attorney Rover's affidavit charging prejudice and personal bias on the part of Judge Youngdahl that something very unusual and surprising is being done by the Department of Justice. It would have been unusual indeed if the issue of prejudice and bias had been overlooked by the government's attorneys. Attorney General Brownell has rightly expressed his approval of Mr. Rover's action.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Washington, Oct. 14—I don't know any more about the impending election than any other American who reads the papers, listens to the radio-television propagandists and talks politics with his family and his neighbors. However, I know as much as the next man and that includes President Eisenhower and all the other nabobs and the tinhorns of the parties. So, the ensuing comments are my own opinion, distilled from information available to practically everyone and from the opinions of others.

The Republican party, as such, and such as it is, is about to lose control of Congress.

I am a constitutional, absolutely pro-American Republican. Therein I differ from Eisenhower and his cult and find myself likening Eisenhower to Wendell Willkie. I regard him as a plant in my party and I am sore at him and his cult because Ike has finally come out against Joe McCarthy although he did it only in an oblique rather than a forthright way. He sent some sort of greeting to Egbert Murrow, the anti-McCarthy propagandist, when Egbert was accepting a meaningless parchment amid a gaseous blurt of platitudes at the Willkie shrine in New York at the hands of a bunch of New Deal Democrats whom a truly constitutional, absolutely pro-American Republican wouldn't be found dead in the same holocaust with. However, I am glad Ike did it. Now we can be enemies.

I remember that Willkie was an old Socialist, then a Democrat and then a successful impostor in my party. After all that he took the whiskers off and became a sycophant for F. D. Roosevelt and Harry Hopkins here and in Russia. Any President who would salute any person receiving any recognition, however tawdry and synthetic, in Freedom House at the hands of those who solemnized this mockery on freedom, thereby forfeits his standing as a Republican in the only legitimate meaning of that term. That was, on Ike's part, a declaration of hostility against not only McCarthy but all Republicans who believe they have a right to know who is shielding the man who promoted that Communist and gave him an honorable discharge. Ike has to take the responsibility for all the bad inferences that flow from his commendation of Egbert for Egbert's abuse of Joe for his campaign against treason and traitors. What a terrible decision that was by a President pretending to be a Republican!

I would rather lose Congress to Democrats who accept every evil implication of the label than win it for a Republican party which has been corrupted by Fabian socialism and an implied acknowledgement that we, the people of the United States, have to subsidize millions of scratchy, half-civilized parasites who don't care whether they live under communism or fascism just so they can eat and drink and breed without working. To these masses, usually described as "teeming", I would add the cynical, selfish French. They can go Communist and be damned as far as I am concerned and the unfortunate British, too, who had decent principles until their aristocracy got killed off and/or degraded and they succumbed to belly-worship and other phases of materialism.

The miscalled Republican party will lose Congress for other reasons, too. The most important reason of all is not emotional, but political in the most practical sense. Politics is the science of government and Eisenhower's miscalled Republican party accepted as its concept of government the Roosevelt monstrosity which absolutely repudiated the job of maintaining our economy and commerce by peaceful pursuits the day that Roosevelt made his quarantine speech at the dedication of a bridge in Chicago. That day we plumped for war "economy" and war industries. We have never since been able to support our industry, commerce and economy without a war program.

Not only the sordid demagogs of the union rackets who hold back their sons for safe jobs in the bureaucracy, but great captains of industry, people whose sons and grandsons will be charred in the sacrificial fires of wars, are obsessed with a pagan conviction that we can't go back to peace. Chambers of Commerce fight for war "projects." Newspapers which give miles of columns to rubbish about Eleanor Roosevelt's devotion to brotherhood would carry on like crazy if rival cities were to swipe their war industries. Without government expenditures for war, Tucson, Arizona,

FOR SAFER DRIVING

In a small publication called "Research Trends" safety authority Alvin C. Smith recently posed—and, answered—a highly important question. If his answer should prove correct, it will have an effect on the life-spans of many thousands of persons.

The question is basically this: Since all sorts of fragile merchanise can be safely packaged in shipping containers, why can't you and your family be "safely packaged" in automobiles?

Smith, for one, believes that you can. And he and a number of others are now working hard to prove it.

It seems to be rather clear, he says, that attempts to reduce our highway deaths by cutting down on the accident total have not been a great success.

Stricter laws, improvements in roads, safety campaigns and similar weapons surely have been of help.

But the death toll continues to climb.

Since we still haven't found a way to drastically cut the "frequency" of accidents, the approach we are turning to now is to try to cut the "effects" of accidents.

Or to use the language of Smith: We must "safer package" the human body so that, when an accident does occur, the body is well protected.

This, he says, can be done two ways:

1. By changing the car's interior to lessen the number of hazards. (A person killed in an auto crash usually strikes his head on a lethal object inside the car.)

2. By the use of so-called "body restraints," such as seat belts and special crash bars, which prevent the head from hitting these hazards, or lessen the force of the blow.

Results of research so far have been rated "extremely encouraging." They seem to promise a day, says Smith, when deaths resulting from auto crashes will be classed as a rare occurrence.

Safety experts agree, however, that unless the public supports such work the day may be slow in arriving. To give our bodies the needed protection, the manufacturers of cars will have to make major changes in their present basic designs. And when these changes will come, it is warned, will depend on how soon we demand them.

If this is true, then let's start demanding. And a sensible way to begin is to urge the adoption of seat belts.

Seat belts are not uncomfortable. They would not require a change in present design of our autos. According to several studies, they could drastically cut the death toll. Yet we still haven't taken action to have them widely installed.

The reason given most often—that there may be some public resistance—seems like a lame excuse. If every make of automobiles made the belts standard equipment, they soon would become accepted. Or the states could require them by law, as they now do tail-lights and such.

Here is an excellent safety project for clubs and for individuals. Buy such belts and install them yourselves. Write some letters to auto firms — write to public officials.

It's been said many times before, but the life you save may (could) be your own.

TIME TABLE FOR PRISON

The old saying that crime does not pay is being well demonstrated in Philadelphia. It shows that cooperation between citizens and the police can get results.

When the hoodlums picked on American Stores, a chain system, they chose the wrong victim. William Park, president of of the company, went to work with the police. Convictions and executions were the result for armed hold-ups and murder in the past two years.

The recent record shows the kind of summary justice that is discouraging a new crop of would-be gangsters. From July 7, 1954 to July 27 inclusive, a wave of armed hold-ups occurred in five American Company stores. By August 10, all bandits had been arrested. Thus, within 35 days the five hold-ups were solved, identifications established, confessions recorded, hearings held, and evidence prepared for the district attorney.

Determined cooperation between the victims of attacks and the police, results in free tickets to the penitentiary, plus reserved seats.

Make it your business to help the authorities apprehend law-breakers.

DEFINITIONS

So many words have crept into our language which men use differently that I thought I might make a glossary to aid those readers who like such things. It all started with someone calling me an arch-reactionary which means nothing to me as a label, for I am neither a reactionary nor arch. Then a fellow I once tried to help out of a hole said that I pontificated which is probably true but I had no idea what he meant. He had undoubtedly read a weekly magazine's description of me as the high priest of anti-Communism and the words, high priest and pontiff, might be interchangeable, if there is any reason for it. And I presume that a pontiff pontificates, but how does he do it? Is it by word of mouth to which anyone is free not to listen or on the tuba from which one escapes with greater difficulty?

Let us look at some of these terms:

Reactionary—Plain: A fellow who believes that in the 8,000 or 9,000 years of recorded human history, something happened before 1933 that is worth while.

Reactionary—Arch: One who believes the same, only more so.

Republican—Plain: A fellow who, when he thinks of it, votes for Republican candidates for public office.

Republican—Liberal: A Republican who prefers the New Deal but finds it socially, economically and politically more advantageous to use the Republican label.

Republican—Eisenhower: A Republican, Democrat, New Dealer or arch-reactionary who believes that President Eisenhower is the greatest President since Harry Truman and that his success is assured.

Republican—Taft: An old-timer with some memories of Harding, Coolidge and Hoover who wanted Robert A. Taft to be nominated in 1952 and never got over it.

Right Wing: Don't know what it means.

Middle-of-the-Road: Ditto.

I am particularly perturbed about the middle-of-the-road because if it is impossible to define with precision what is right wing or left, how does one find the middle?

McCarthyism: A Congressional investigation of Communists by incorrect methods. In France, this definition would fit Duclos's objections to the French government investigating Soviet spies. In the United States, the National Committee for an Effective Congress has tried to confuse McCarthyism with Hitler with little success. The Watkins Committee limits itself to defining it as a Senator who is a boor and who says about other Senators in public what they say about each other in private—also about some generals.

Fascist: A fellow who disagrees with the New Deal but it not a Communist. The term may be applied to anyone, particularly to a Son and Daughter of the American Revolution and to one who believes that the United States can get along without the United Nations.

Democrat: Plain: One who is acustomed to vote for the Democratic Party.

Democrat—Southern: A Democrat living south of the Mason-Dixon line, who is emotionally conditioned not to vote for a Republican even when he prefers to. This tradition he has broken only for Hoover and Eisenhower with regrets.

Democrat—New Dealer: An adherent of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Democrat—Fair Dealer: An adherent of Harry Truman.

A.D.A. (Americans for Democratic Action): Fabian Socialists who support the Democrats but also infiltrate the Republicans.

Communist: A member of the Communist Party, U.S.A., disciplined by the Communist International and accepting the Marxist-Leninist principles of history, sociology and economics. He is now illegal.

Fellow Traveler: One who accepts Communist discipline but does not join the party.

Innocent: One who goes along but does not know why.

"Liquid Assets" Extraordinary!

A lake covered with money. During World War 2, the Nazi Government of Germany manufactured dollar and pound notes of high denomination in Ebensee, Upper Austria. When the Nazis realized that the war was lost they packed up all machinery and notes and fled. When their escape was cut off they dumped the trucks into Lake Traun, Upper Austria. Within a few days the action of the water loosened the bundles. As far as the eye could see the surface of the lake was covered with multicolored pound and dollar bills. Millions were floating and were eagerly snapped up by the natives.

Federal Trial Brings Amazing Example of Existing Prejudices as Anti-Reds Concerned

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Oct. 15 — When the government presents a case to a federal court, it is entitled to a fair trial, and the judge who tries the case is usually obligated to disqualify himself if he has previously expressed an opinion adverse to either party in the case.

This is the rule and the custom in American jurisprudence. Yet it is an amazing example of the prejudices that exist today where anti-Communist controversies are involved to find the U. S. attorney himself under attack when he asks for the disqualification of a judge.

There should be no surprise that the propriety of Judge Youngdahl sitting as a judge in the case of Owen Lattimore—indicted for denying under oath that he was a "promoter of Communist interests" — is being questioned by Leo Rover, U. S. attorney. At the time the first ruling was handed down more than 18 months ago, this writer reported the reaction among many members of the bar to the Youngdhal decision and particularly to the judge's gratuitious comments which had nothing to do with the indictments he was passing on but had a lot to do with revealing his tendency to pass judgment on the merits of the case itself even though no testimony had as yet been presented.

On May 6, 1953, this correspondent wrote in a Washington dispatch as follows:

"When U. S. District Judge Luther Youngdahl—the former governor of Minnesota who was appointed by President Truman in a political maneuver that caused quite a flurry in Republican ranks in the northwest—threw out four of seven counts in the indictment against Owen Lattimore, quite a lot of curiosity and puzzlement was aroused in legal circles here. For the judge was not content to dismiss the four counts but in his written opinion said there was 'serious doubt in the court's mind whether any count in this indictment can finally pass the test of materiality.'

"The curiosity arises because it is being asked: How can a federal judge who has expressed doubt about the three remaining counts in an indictment give a fair trial to the government of the United States in prosecuting the case when he has already prejudged the issues? Wouldn't a juror be disqualified if he expressed publicly such doubts before a trial took place?

"There is some question also as to whether Judge Youngdahl has as yet been finally assigned to the Lattimore case for trial but, if he has been, then it would not be surprising if the government asked that another judge be assigned in view of this prejudgment.

"Judge Youngdahl's opinion arouses puzzlement not because of the things he said but the things he apparently omitted to say or to take into account in his formal opinion.

"Thus, although it wasn't necessary for Judge Youngdahl to do so to make his point, he declared that the Tydings Committee of the Senate had investigated the charges against Owen Lattimore and 'concluded there was no foundation to the charges against him.' One would have thought in all fairness that the Judge would have taken cognizance of the investigation made by a second Senate Committee under the chairmanship of Senator McCarran of Nevada, which also investigated the same charges and spent an even longer time doing it and then came up with the conclusion that Owen Lattimore was 'a conscious, articulate instrument of the Soviet conspiracy in the United States.' To state the conclusion of one committee and omit the conclusion of the other committee is to cause more puzzlement.

"The only reference that Judge Youngdahl makes to the McCarran committee report is to say that 'apparently the committee could discover no evidence from its investigation of the testimony of the various witnesses that defendant lied in denying that he was a Communist, a member of the Communist party, a Soviet spy or a fellow traveler.'

"Here is an attempt by the judge to evaluate the Senate Committee's work and yet, so far as conclusions are concerned, he apparently ignores the fact that the Senate Committee did ask the Department of Justice to submit the perjury charges to a federal grand jury and did point to specific contradictions which, in its judgment, merited attention. Is it the duty of a Senate Committee to submit all its evidence of alleged perjury before the trial begins or is it the duty of the Justice Department to do so during the trial itself?

"Judge Youngdahl did say, with reference to the three counts that remained for trial, that 'the question of materiality, like the question of pertinency, is a question of law for the court to decide when the government's evidence is in or at the conclusion of all the testimony.'

"But if that's to be the procedure, then why did Judge Youngdahl feel it necessary, even without hearing any evidence, to cast doubt on the counts in the indictment left to be tried? This and other questions are being asked as the case is being discussed among lawyers here, some of whom say the Youngdahl decision is quite unprecedented."

Notwithstanding the reaction to the case in May 1953, it is being asserted now in rebuttal to U. S. Attorney Rover's affidavit charging prejudice and personal bias on the part of Judge Youngdahl that something very unusual and surprising is being done by the Department of Justice. It would have been unusual indeed if the issue of prejudice and bias had been overlooked by the government's attorneys. Attorney General Brownell has rightly expressed his approval of Mr. Rover's action.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Washington, Oct. 14—I don't know any more about the impending election than any other American who reads the papers, listens to the radio-television propagandists and talks politics with his family and his neighbors. However, I know as much as the next man and that includes President Eisenhower and all the other nabobs and the tinhorns of the parties. So, the ensuing comments are my own opinion, distilled from information available to practically everyone and from the opinions of others.

The Republican party, as such, and such as it is, is about to lose control of Congress.

I am a constitutional, absolutely pro-American Republican. Therein I differ from Eisenhower and his cult and find myself likening Eisenhower to Wendell Willkie. I regard him as a plant in my party and I am sore at him and his cult because Ike has finally come out against Joe McCarthy although he did it only in an oblique rather than a forthright way. He sent some sort of greeting to Egbert Murrow, the anti-McCarthy propagandist, when Egbert was accepting a meaningless parchment amid a gaseous blurt of platitudes at the Willkie shrine in New York at the hands of a bunch of New Deal Democrats whom a truly constitutional, absolutely pro-American Republican wouldn't be found dead in the same holocaust with. However, I am glad Ike did it. Now we can be enemies.

I remember that Willkie was an old Socialist, then a Democrat and then a successful impostor in my party. After all that he took the whiskers off and became a sycophant for F. D. Roosevelt and Harry Hopkins here and in Russia. Any President who would salute any person receiving any recognition, however tawdry and synthetic, in Freedom House at the hands of those who solemnized this mockery on freedom, thereby forfeits his standing as a Republican in the only legitimate meaning of that term. That was, on Ike's part, a declaration of hostility against not only McCarthy but all Republicans who believe they have a right to know who is shielding the man who promoted that Communist and gave him an honorable discharge. Ike has to take the responsibility for all the bad inferences that flow from his commendation of Egbert for Egbert's abuse of Joe for his campaign against treason and traitors. What a terrible decision that was by a President pretending to be a Republican!

I would rather lose Congress to Democrats who accept every evil implication of the label than win it for a Republican party which has been corrupted by Fabian socialism and an implied acknowledgement that we, the people of the United States, have to subsidize millions of scratchy, half-civilized parasites who don't care whether they live under communism or fascism just so they can eat and drink and breed without working. To these masses, usually described as "teeming", I would add the cynical, selfish French. They can go Communist and be damned as far as I am concerned and the unfortunate British, too, who had decent principles until their aristocracy got killed off and/or degraded and they succumbed to belly-worship and other phases of materialism.

The miscalled Republican party will lose Congress for other reasons, too. The most important reason of all is not emotional, but political in the most practical sense. Politics is the science of government and Eisenhower's miscalled Republican party accepted as its concept of government the Roosevelt monstrosity which absolutely repudiated the job of maintaining our economy and commerce by peaceful pursuits the day that Roosevelt made his quarantine speech at the dedication of a bridge in Chicago. That day we plumped for war "economy" and war industries. We have never since been able to support our industry, commerce and economy without a war program.

Not only the sordid demagogs of the union rackets who hold back their sons for safe jobs in the bureaucracy, but great captains of industry, people whose sons and grandsons will be charred in the sacrificial fires of wars, are obsessed with a pagan conviction that we can't go back to peace. Chambers of Commerce fight for war "projects." Newspapers which give miles of columns to rubbish about Eleanor Roosevelt's devotion to brotherhood would carry on like crazy if rival cities were to swipe their war industries. Without government expenditures for war, Tucson, Arizona,

Minister Reviews Trip to Mexico

Experiences during his trip to Mexico this summer were reviewed by the Rev. Arthur E. Oudemool, pastor of the Old Dutch Church, at a meeting of the Men's Club of the church on Wednesday evening.

With his family and a group of teen-age boys, with two automobiles and a trailer, the Rev. Mr. Oudemool traveled through Mexico, and on the way home stopped at Grand Canyon and other points of interest.

The pastor told the Men's Club he plans to make a similar trip next year during his vacation, and will again offer to take a group of young people.

The trip, he said, proved both educational and fun. Much understanding was gained of the land and people south of the border, he said.

Mexico, he found, was "less urbanized and more rural than our country; more mystical and less mechanical; less driven by the time factor."

Security Council Awaits Report

United Nations, Oct. 15 (AP)—Faced with opposing versions of why Egypt seized an Israeli freighter entering the Suez Canal, the Security Council decided last night to await an impartial report before taking any steps in the latest Middle East incident.

The 11-nation council heard both the Israeli and Egyptian accounts of the Sept. 28 seizure of the 500-ton ship Bat Galim. Council members then voted unanimously to adjourn pending a report from the U.N.-sponsored Mixed Armistice Commission (MAC). The report is expected within two weeks.

During the four-hour session, Israeli's Abba Eban called on the council to denounce Egypt for what he called hampering of shipping in the Suez Canal.

EGYPT'S MAHMOUD Azmi replied that his government had let more than 70 vessels bound to or from Haifa pass through the waterway without interference so far this year.

Azmi claimed the Bat Galim was taken in custody after crewmen fired on two Egyptian fishing craft, sinking one with the loss of two lives.

Eban said the Bat Galim was on an innocent mission, loaded with meat and hides and bound for Haifa. He said she was unarmed except for the captain's pistol.

The U. S. delegation yesterday refused to accept delivery of a Chinese complaint against American aid to the Chinese Nationalists and objected because the U.N. secretariat had circulated the Chinese document.

Informed sources said the United States sent the complaint back on grounds it does not recognize the Peiping regime and thus does not need to consider its messages.

The document was a letter from Chinese Premier Chou En-Lai asking the General Assembly to force the United States to stop protecting Formosa.

'Seven Little Sisters' Nears End of Voyage From Peru

Pago Pago, American Samoa, Oct. 15 (AP)—Slowed by heavy seas, the balsa raft "Seven Little Sisters" neared the end of its voyage from Peru today, bobbing along at the end of a towline from the welcoming ship Manuatele.

Three hundred islanders in colorful native costumes jammed an area between the boat dock and the customs shed to welcome the tiny raft and its intrepid skipper, 61-year-old William Willis.

Willis yelled to Dr. D. D. Smith of New York, aboard the Manuatele "I have no need of medical assistance, everything is fine."

Smith, three Samoans and John P. Mosher of Parson, Kan., an officer aboard the Manuatele, leaped overboard, swam to the raft and accompanied Willis into the harbor.

WILLIS, cleanly shaven and apparently in the pink of condition, was asked what he would like to eat at a welcoming banquet. He replied "anything, thank you, anything except raw fish."

Willis, a native Texan who lives in New York, set out from Peru four months ago with a cat and a parrot as his only companions.

The cat, he said, was in good condition—but she had eaten the parrot two days ago.

Capt. Robert Payes of New York, skipper of the Manuatele, said the raft, too, was in fine shape and had stood the 115-day voyage well.

Gov. Richard Barrett Lowe of American Samoa planned the welcome banquet and made arrangements for Willis to spend his first night ashore in a newly-decorated guest room, complete with an innerspring mattress the likes of which Willis has probably been dreaming about for weeks.

A BROKEN TOW line that took half an hour to repair delayed the raft's arrival. Willis apparently had foreseen such a possibility for he refused to leave his craft until it reached port.

In New York his wife Bess, told he wouldn't get off the raft, said, "of course he wouldn't get off. The raft might smash against the other ship. He has to be at the steering wheel all the time."

That steering wheel apparently had shortened the distance Willis had to travel.

He had planned to drift 11,000 miles in eight months, whereas the trip took less than four.

The raft Kon-Tiki, about twice the size of the "Seven Little Sisters," crossed the Pacific seven years ago in 101 days. Comparison of the distances the two rafts traveled had to await a full report from Willis.

The Kon-Tiki carried seven men, led by Thor Heyerdahl.

Willis traveled alone to "show that a lone man can conquer the ocean and the fury of the elements with his bare hands and the most rudimentary means of navigation."

Late Bulletin

Buffalo, Oct. 15 (AP)—The U. S. Weather Bureau in Buffalo today issued a special advisory warning that the remains of Hurricane Hazel will pass over western New York tonight.

Up to an inch of rain during the next 24 hours was forecast, and gale winds from the west tomorrow are expected to bring in much cooler air in the wake of the diminishing hurricane.

THE FULL ADVISORY:

"The remains of Hurricane Hazel will pass over the western New York area tonight. Warm, tropical air will produce heavy rains, especially over the southern tier counties. The winds will be curbed by the rough terrain. As the center moves north tomorrow, it will join with the deep low just north of the Great Lakes. This combination will cause a westerly gale which will bring in much cooler air. Stormy conditions will subside tomorrow night."

Drenching rains and winds up to 50 miles an hour are expected to sweep most of upstate New York.

McGovern Says Picture Distorted

New York, Oct. 15 (AP)—Comptroller J. Raymond McGovern, Republican candidate for lieutenant governor, charged yesterday that the Democratic state candidates are presenting "a distorted picture" of unemployment in an attempt to get votes.

McGovern accused gubernatorial candidate Averell Harriman and his running mates of creating "a psychology of fear among the people of the state."

The nation, McGovern stated, has enjoyed "the greatest peacetime prosperity" during the Eisenhower administration.

"There are 160,000 more business firms in the state of New York today than there were in 1946," he continued.

"We have created 750,000 new jobs. For the first half of 1954, we received within New York state almost one-fifth of all the defense contracts let by the federal government."

McoGvern told newsmen at his campaign headquarters that there has been a marked decrease in unemployment since last June.

Javits Says His Target Tammany

New York, Oct. 15 (AP)—Rep. Jacob J. Javits said yesterday that if he is elected attorney general on the Republican ticket his "No. 1 target will be Tammany Tall."

Speaking from a sound truck in the garment manufacturing district, Javits said the Democratic ticket is headed "by a misty-eyed millionaire and buttressed by a young man with a famous name."

His reference was to Averell Harriman, running for governor, and Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., running against Javits for attorney general.

Overpass Travel To Be 'on Gravel'

Traffic will start moving over the Route 28 overpass of the thruway "no the gravel" tomorrow "if everything goes well," a state official said today.

A definite time for the opening was not announced, other than the indication that it would be done "at the convenience of the contractor."

Use of the overpass before completion of its pavement is necessary to join sections of the tthruway in the interchange area before the scheduled opening of the expressway southward Oct. 26, A. R. Erskine, thruway engineer at Poughkeepsie, said earlier this week.

The present detour around the overpass will be closed.

Bats are mammals, not birds, and have fur as well as well-developed teeth.

New York, Oct. 15 (AP) — Author-lecturer Corliss Lamont pleaded innocent today to charges of contempt of Congress and was released in $2,000 bail pending hearings on various defense motions Oct. 29. Lamont was indicted by a federal grand jury yesterday for refusing to answer questions of the Senate Permanent Investigations subcommittee headed by Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.). He could receive, if convicted, a year in prison and a $1,000 fine for each refusal.

President to Go Back to Capital

Denver, Oct. 15 (AP)—President Eisenhower ends an eight-week work-and-play Colorado vacation today and heads back to Washington via Indianapolis, where tonight he makes a major speech the Republicans hope will win them votes.

The President and Mrs. Eisenhower—both well rested and reluctant to leave—were scheduled to take off from Lowry Air Force Base at 1 p. m. (EST).

Their private plane, the Columbine, is due in Washington about 15 minutes after midnight (EST).

EISENHOWER'S address at Butler University Field House in Indianapolis tonight is being billed by the White House as "non-partisan" but it's on an important congressional campaign issue — the administration's controversial farm program.

And the Republican National Committee is footing the bill for a half-hour nationwide radio broadcast of the address (NBC) and a 60-station, 15-state farm belt telecast (Du Mont). The President will start speaking at 9 p. m. (EST).

Despite the "non-partisan" label, GOP farm area leaders are counting heavily on the President to bolster the party's campaign to keep control of Congress in the Nov. 2 elections.

THE PRESIDENT'S Colorado stay, which began Aug. 21, was climaxed by a party last night marking his 64th birthday. He and the first lady had dinner at a downtown hotel with a small group of close friends and heaped even higher the big stack of birthday gifts which poured into the White House from all over the nation.

They included two calves for his Gettysburg farm in Pennsylvania—one a Black Angus, the other a Hereford; trout rods and reels, an old Scotch bellows for the farm fireplace and outdoor barbeque equipment. Also for use at the farm.

Aides said Eisenhower is going back to Washington more rested and relaxed than he has been in a long time. He got in a lot of golf and fishing, but the White House emphasized he did a lot of work too.

Some Progress Made in Talks

New York, Oct. 15 (AP)—Marathon mediation talks with AFL teamsters and truckers officials to avert an area-wide strike deadline of midnight tonight recessed early today with a union spokesman reporting "slight progress."

The talks, which began at noon yesterday, adjourned at 4:10 a. m. (EST) with all parties slated to resume sessions at 11 a. m.

After the meeting broke up, there was no comment from the employers.

Mrs. Anna Rosenberg, former assistantant secretary of defense and head of, a special three-member committee appointed by Mayor Robert F. Wagner, said the "question" of a strike at midnight had not been discussed.

"We have all day to discuss it," she said.

No change in previous employer offers or union demands was reported.

Late last night Mrs. Rosenberg had said she was prepared to stay all night.

"We've got to do something," she said. "We've got to have a settlement. They've both got to move."

He was taken to the county jail pending hearing Saturday morning before City Judge Raymond J. Mino.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Oct. 15 (AP)—The stock market swayed irregularly under successive buying and selling flurries today and presented a mixed picture in the early afternoon.

The range of change was around 2 points in either direction, although some moved outside those limits.

Trading was quite brisk but at a rate below that of yesterday's total of 2,540,000 shares when the market suffered one of the heavier setbacks of the year.

The break brought in a flood of overnight buying and selling orders that hit the tape with full force at the opening today. Within a short time after the opening bell, the tape fell behind in reporting actual floor transactions. That lasted, however, only momentarily.

Within the first hour, buying support was uncovered and the market advanced. That advantage failed to hold, however, and prices sagged.

Railroads were firm throughout. Steels did well. There were good plus signs in the radio-televisions and airlines. Oils had a weak tendency along with chemicals. Otherwise the market was mixed.

Quick Cleared Of Charge

Key West, Fla., Oct. 15 (AP)—Edward Peter Quick, 23-year-old navy enlisted man of Ellenville, N. Y., was clear of a manslaughter charge for the second time today.

Quick was driver of a car which overturned June 23. Debbie Martell of Miami Beach, a model, died in the accident.

The sailor first was cleared of a manslaughter count by a justice of the peace. He was rearrested on a criminal court order, and tried on the same charge.

A six-man jury found him innocent last night. He will return to navy duty.

Campaign Gets

Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Kentucky, Ohio and Michigan. Cornell has visited Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota and Wisconsin. Bell is reported on Oklahoma, New Mexico, Colorado, Wyoming, Idaho and Montana. Morin's territory includes New Jersey, Delaware, Connecticut, Rhode Island and Massachusetts. Landsberg has been in California, Oregon and Nevada.

Privately, and sometimes publicly, many political professionals agree with Whitehead's appraisal, written from Louisville, Ky.:

"So far as I can see there isn't a compelling issue or personality around to get the mass of voters excited. Business generally is good. There's no war. Nobody seems to be very mad about anything, unless it's a man who's out of a job."

REGISTRATION totals often are used in an effort to gauge public interest in a campaign. They're never too reliable—lots of people register who don't vote. This year the registration figures are particularly inconclusive—higher than 1950 in California, for instance, but lower in New York.

One thing is pretty well agreed. In this election, for the first time in many years, there is no particular crisis to steam up the voters.

Here in brief are the findings of the AP correspondents who have been in closest touch with voter sentiment:

WHITEHEAD: "So far I've seen no signs of increasing interest in the campaign, although it is likely to pick up as election day nears. With no compelling personality or issue to stir the people, the election is likely to be a contest of organization—with the better party organizations getting out the vote and perhaps making the difference."

BELL: "Voters in the southwest and Rocky mountain states, where there are several critical Senate contests, are viewing this year's campaign with extreme apathy. President Eisenhower's flexible farm price support program had been built up as a major issue. And it has that prominence in a few states. But in others the flexible vs. rigid parity proposals don't seem to strike any campaign sparks."

CORNELL: "Whether there will be a pickup in interest before election day is hard to say. You get the general impression there won't be. Proprietors of barber shops and rural beer emporiums tell you their customers don't have much to say about election."

MORIN: "Registration is at a postwar low in New York city in sptie of a concerted Democratic effort to stimulate it to support the party's ticket. Entirely composed of New York city men. In Maine, where the election already has been held, the vote exceeded 1950. But in Connecticut Vice President Nixon drew crowds of only a few hundred. Television is an invisible factor in the whole region."

LANDSBERG: "People seem weary of politics, though there has been a definite pickup of voter interest in California, Oregon and Nevada for local reasons. Nevada suddenly found itself with a senatorial race as a result of the death of Sen. McCarran (D.-Nev.)."

Pleads Innocent

Lawrence, Mass., Oct. 15 (AP)—Arthur G. Jackson, 23, of Haverill, pleaded innocent in Superior Court today to four counts charging adultery with Mrs. Lorraine Clark, 28, who is awaiting trial for murder in her husband's death last spring. One of the charges listed the date of May 19—which was about two weeks before the body of Melvin W. Clark Jr., 29, was found on the bank of the Merrimack river. Clark had been reported missing on Palm Sunday, and the state contends he was slain the night before, on April 10. Jackson also pleaded innocent to a second indictment charging him with adultery with Judith Whitcock at Newburyport on the night of April 10. She was not otherwise identified.

Case Promises

Miss Case had left for New York, told newsmen she joined the faculty this year. He said she held a bachelor of arts degree from Bucknell, and later did work at Smith College and at Teachers College of Columbia University. Miss Case could not be reached for comment.

MEANWHILE in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Mrs. Clifford P. Case, mother of the Republican senatorial nominee and Adelaide, said she did not believe her daughter was affiliated in any way with Communist party members. She said that Adelaide had been away from Poughkeepsie for about 20 years except for visits.

Mrs. Pierson S. Phelps, of Hyde Park, N. Y., a sister of Adelaide Case, said that Adelaide had never given the family any reason to believe she traveled with Communists or had any tie with them.

Both Mrs. Case and Mrs. Phelps said they had no idea of Adelaide's present whereabouts and both claimed no knowledge of another Adelaide Case, reported to have been a resident of Poughkeepsie and associated with the teaching profession in the early 1900's.

The Star-Ledger is an independent newspaper which supports President Eisenhower and usually supports Republican candidates. In its story about Adelaide Case, the newspaper referred to remarks made Wednesday by Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R.-Wis.) concerning the GOP senatorial nominee.

McCarthy, at a news conference in Washington, said he was supporting all Republican senatorial candidates with one exception — Case. Early in the campaign, Case issued a statement saying that if elected he would vote to remove McCarthy as chairman, or as a member, of the committee on government operations.

The Wisconsin senator said his reason for not supporting Case had nothing to do with the latter's campaign statement. Rather, he said, it was because of "other reasons I think will be made public before election."

There was no indication from McCarthy as to what material he was referring to. However, the Star-Ledger quoted "sources close to the Wisconsin legislator" that part of McCarthy's statement concerned reports that Miss Case "had been active in Communist-front organizations."

Case is opposed in the Senate race by Democrat Charles R. Howell, who issued a statement referring to McCarthy and saying "I won't tolerate any back street campaign in New Jersey." An aide later said the statement also was aimed at the reports mentioning Miss Case. Howell himself declared he wanted "to win on the issues."

Case's candidacy is opposed by a conservative GOP group—the Committee for a Stronger New Jersey Republican Party—which also issued a statement saying:

"The committee wishes to make it clear that . . . it . . . had no part in circulating them (reports about Miss Case). Nor does it have any intention of doing so."

The committee is pushing a write-in campaign for former Rep. Fred A. Hartley Jr. It contends that Case's voting record while in Congress was too liberal.

Strikes Are . . .

ban on overtime, imposed at the start of the year.

The city's bus strike, meanwhile, entered its third day with 15,746 of the system's 43,000 drivers and conductors idle and 3,263 of its 7,600 buses laid up.

The busmen, who lack the backing of union leaders, quit work when the state-owned Transport System introduced new schedules to spread manpower. The system is short 2,200 drivers and conductors.

The strikers claim they are being overworked to make up for the shortage and that higher wages would bring in ample recruits.

Security Council Awaits Report

United Nations, Oct. 15 (AP)—Faced with opposing versions of why Egypt seized an Israeli freighter entering the Suez Canal, the Security Council decided last night to await an impartial report before taking any steps in the latest Middle East incident.

The 11-nation council heard both the Israeli and Egyptian accounts of the Sept. 28 seizure of the 500-ton ship Bat Galim. Council members then voted unanimously to adjourn pending a report from the U.N.-sponsored Mixed Armistice Commission (MAC). The report is expected within two weeks.

During the four-hour session, Israeli's Abba Eban called on the council to denounce Egypt for what he called hampering of shipping in the Suez Canal.

EGYPT'S MAHMOUD Azmi replied that his government had let more than 70 vessels bound to or from Haifa pass through the waterway without interference so far this year.

Azmi claimed the Bat Galim was taken in custody after crewmen fired on two Egyptian fishing craft, sinking one with the loss of two lives.

Eban said the Bat Galim was on an innocent mission, loaded with meat and hides and bound for Haifa. He said she was unarmed except for the captain's pistol.

The U. S. delegation yesterday refused to accept delivery of a Chinese complaint against American aid to the Chinese Nationalists and objected because the U.N. secretariat had circulated the Chinese document.

Informed sources said the United States sent the complaint back on grounds it does not recognize the Peiping regime and thus does not need to consider its messages.

The document was a letter from Chinese Premier Chou En-Lai asking the General Assembly to force the United States to stop protecting Formosa.

Shakeup Announced

New York, Oct. 15 (AP)—The biggest shakeup of police brass since Commissioner Francis W. Adams took office 10 months ago was announced today. It involved a deputy chief inspector, 17 inspectors, 20 deputy inspectors and 7 captains. Deputy Commissioner Richard A. Dougherty, in charge of the department's community relations, said the move followed "logically" from Adams' "operation efficiency."

'Seven Little Sisters' Nears End of Voyage From Peru

Pago Pago, American Samoa, Oct. 15 (AP)—Slowed by heavy seas, the balsa raft "Seven Little Sisters" neared the end of its voyage from Peru today, bobbing along at the end of a towline from the welcoming ship Manuatelè.

Three hundred islanders in colorful native costumes jammed an area between the boat dock and the customs shed to welcome the tiny raft and its intrepid skipper, 61-year-old William Willis.

Willis yelled to Dr. D. D. Smith of New York, aboard the Manuatele "I have no need of medical assistance, everything is fine."

Smith, three Samoans and John P. Mosher of Parson, Kan., an officer aboard the Manuatele, leaped overboard, swam to the raft and accompanied Willis into the harbor.

WILLIS, cleanly shaven and apparently in the pink of condition, was asked what he would like to eat at a welcoming banquet. He replied "anything, thank you, anything except raw fish."

Willis, a native Texan who lives in New York, set out from Peru four months ago with a cat and a parrot as his only companions.

The cat, he said, was in good condition—but she had eaten the parrot two days ago.

Capt. Robert Payes of New York, skipper of the Manuatele, said the raft, too, was in fine shape and had stood the 115-day voyage well.

Gov. Richard Barrett Lowe of American Samoa planned the welcome banquet and made arrangements for Willis to spend his first night ashore in a newly-decorated guest room, complete with an innerspring mattress the likes of which Willis has probably been dreaming about for weeks.

A BROKEN TOW line that took half an hour to repair delayed the raft's arrival. Willis apparently had foreseen such a possibility for he refused to leave his craft until it reached port.

In New York his wife Bess, told he wouldn't get off the raft, said, "of course he wouldn't get off. The raft might smash against the other ship. He has to be at the steering wheel all the time."

That steering wheel apparently had shortened the distance Willis had to travel.

He had planned to drift 11,000 miles in eight months, whereas the trip took less than four.

The raft Kon-Tiki, about twice the size of the "Seven Little Sisters," crossed the Pacific seven years ago in 101 days. Comparison of the distances the two rafts traveled had to await a full report from Willis.

The Kon-Tiki carried seven men, led by Thor Heyerdahl.

Willis traveled alone to "show that a lone man can conquer the ocean and the fury of the elements with his bare hands and the most rudimentary means of navigation."

Late Bulletin

Buffalo, Oct. 15 (AP)—The U. S. Weather Bureau in Buffalo today issued a special advisory warning that the remains of Hurricane Hazel will pass over western New York tonight.

Up to an inch of rain during the next 24 hours was forecast, and gale winds from the west tomorrow are expected to bring in much cooler air in the wake of the diminishing hurricane.

THE FULL ADVISORY:

"The remains of Hurricane Hazel will pass over the western New York area tonight. Warm, tropical air will produce heavy rains, especially over the southern tier counties. The winds will be curbed by the rough terrain. As the center moves north tomorrow, it will join with the deep low just north of the Great Lakes. This combination will cause a westerly gale which will bring in much cooler air. Stormy conditions will subside tomorrow night."

Drenching rains and winds up to 50 miles an hour are expected to sweep most of upstate New York.

McGovern Says Picture Distorted

New York, Oct. 15 (AP)—Comptroller J. Raymond McGovern, Republican candidate for lieutenant governor, charged yesterday that the Democratic state candidates are presenting "a distorted picture" of unemployment in an attempt to get votes.

McGovern accused gubernatorial candidate Averell Harriman and his running mates of creating "a psychology of fear among the people of the state."

The nation, McGovern stated, has enjoyed "the greatest peacetime prosperity" during the Eisenhower administration.

"There are 160,000 more business firms in the state of New York today than there were in 1946," he continued.

"We have created 750,000 new jobs. For the first half of 1954, we received within New York state almost one-fifth of all the defense contracts let by the federal government."

McoGvern told newsmen at his campaign headquarters that there has been a marked decrease in unemployment since last June.

Javits Says His Target Tammany

New York, Oct. 15 (AP)—Rep. Jacob J. Javits said yesterday that if he is elected attorney general on the Republican ticket his "No. 1 target will be Tammany Tall."

Speaking from a sound truck in the garment manufacturing district, Javits said the Democratic ticket is headed "by a misty-eyed millionaire and buttressed by a young man with a famous name."

His reference was to Averell Harriman, running for governor, and Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., running against Javits for attorney general.

Overpass Travel To Be 'on Gravel'

Traffic will start moving over the Route 28 overpass of the thruway "no the gravel" tomorrow "if everything goes well," a state official said today.

A definite time for the opening was not announced, other than the indication that it would be done "at the convenience of the contractor."

Use of the overpass before completion of its pavement is necessary to join sections of the tthruway in the interchange area before the scheduled opening of the expressway southward Oct. 26, A. R. Erskine, thruway engineer at Poughkeepsie, said earlier this week.

The present detour around the overpass will be closed.

Bats are mammals, not birds, and have fur as well as well-developed teeth.

An injunction action brought by Richard H. D. Boerker and another against Albert Thomas Fellows in Supreme Court involving a right of way over the Boerker lands at Ideal Park, partially tried was adjourned until Monday when counsel in the case was required to appear before the Appellate Division today. Abraham Streifer appears for plaintiff and Harry Gold for defendant.

Plaintiff seeks damages for personal injuries. After the jury had been selected and the case moved for trial, a recess was taken. Philip Korn appears for plaintiff and Stanley B. Johnson for defendants.

Another negligence action brought by Robert Zalkin against Irving Rubin Basker, was announced settled. William W. Halper for plaintiff and Jerome Heffer for defendant.

Also settled was an action in negligence brought by Louis Katzman and another against John Spylios and another. Lawrence Levine for plaintiff and Daniel Decker and Cook & Cook for defendants.

A verdict was directed in an undefended action brought by Mountain View Coach Lines against Norman Rivers, an action for damages to a bus involved in an accident in July, 1953. A verdict of $201 was directed by Justice Taylor. A. W. Lent appeared for plaintiff.

Lamont Pleads Innocent

New York, Oct. 15 (AP) — Author-lecturer Corliss Lamont pleaded innocent today to charges of contempt of Congress and was released in $2,000 bail pending hearings on various defense motions Oct. 29. Lamont was indicted by a federal grand jury yesterday for refusing to answer questions of the Senate Permanent Investigations subcommittee headed by Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.). Lamont balked at replying to some 23 questions relating to material he wrote for a handbook on Russia which was used by the army. He could receive, if convicted, a year in prison and a $1,000 fine for each refusal.

President to Go Back to Capital

Denver, Oct. 15 (AP)—President Eisenhower ends an eight-week work-and-play Colorado vacation today and heads back to Washington via Indianapolis, where tonight he makes a major speech the Republicans hope will win them votes.

The President and Mrs. Eisenhower—both well rested and reluctant to leave—were scheduled to take off from Lowry Air Force Base at 1 p. m. (EST).

Their private plane, the Columbine, is due in Washington about 15 minutes after midnight (EST).

EISENHOWER'S address at Butler University Field House in Indianapolis tonight is being billed by the White House as "non-partisan" but it's on an important congressional campaign issue — the administration's controversial farm program.

And the Republican National Committee is footing the bill for a half-hour nationwide radio broadcast of the address (NBC) and a 60-station, 15-state farm belt telecast (Du Mont). The President will start speaking at 9 p. m. (EST).

Despite the "non-partisan" label, GOP farm area leaders are counting heavily on the President to bolster the party's campaign to keep control of Congress in the Nov. 2 elections.

THE PRESIDENT'S Colorado stay, which began Aug. 21, was climaxed by a party last night marking his 64th birthday. He and the first lady had dinner at a downtown hotel with a small group of close friends and heaped even higher the big stack of birthday gifts which poured into the White House from all over the nation.

They included two calves for his Gettysburg farm in Pennsylvania—one a Black Angus, the other a Hereford; trout rods and reels, an old Scotch bellows for the farm fireplace and outdoor barbeque equipment. Also for use at the farm.

Aides said Eisenhower is going back to Washington more rested and relaxed than he has been in a long time. He got in a lot of golf and fishing, but the White House emphasized he did a lot of work too.

Some Progress Made in Talks

New York, Oct. 15 (AP)—Marathon mediation talks with AFL teamsters and truckers officials to avert an area-wide strike deadline of midnight tonight recessed early today with a union spokesman reporting "slight progress."

The talks, which began at noon yesterday, adjourned at 4:10 a. m. (EST) with all parties slated to resume sessions at 11 a. m.

After the meeting broke up, there was no comment from the employers.

Mrs. Anna Rosenberg, former assistantant secretary of defense and head of, a special three-member committee appointed by Mayor Robert F. Wagner, said the "question" of a strike at midnight had not been discussed.

"We have all day to discuss it," she said.

No change in previous employer offers or union demands was reported.

Late last night Mrs. Rosenberg had said she was prepared to stay all night.

"We've got to do something," she said. "We've got to have a settlement. They've both got to move."

Lemuel Howard said the arrest was on complaint of women, who charge that the defendant exposed his person in the Wilbur section of the city Thursday. He was taken to the county jail pending hearing Saturday morning before City Judge Raymond J. Mino.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Oct. 15 (AP)—The stock market swayed irregularly under successive buying and selling flurries today and presented a mixed picture in the early afternoon.

The range of change was around 2 points in either direction, although some moved outside those limits.

Trading was quite brisk but at a rate below that of yesterday's total of 2,540,000 shares when the market suffered one of the heavier setbacks of the year.

The break brought in a flood of overnight buying and selling orders that hit the tape with full force at the opening today. Within a short time after the opening bell, the tape fell behind in reporting actual floor transactions. That lasted, however, only momentarily.

Within the first hour, buying support was uncovered and the market advanced. That advantage failed to hold, however, and prices sagged.

Railroads were firm throughout. Steels did well. There were good plus signs in the radio-television and airlines. Oils had a weak tendency along with chemicals. Otherwise the market was mixed.

Quick Cleared Of Charge

Key West, Fla., Oct. 15 (AP)—Edward Peter Quick, 23-year-old navy enlisted man of Ellenville, N. Y., was clear of a manslaughter charge for the second time today.

Quick was driver of a car which overturned June 23. Debbie Martell of Miami Beach, a model, died in the accident.

The sailor first was cleared of a manslaughter count by a justice of the peace. He was rearrested on a criminal court order, and tried on the same charge.

A six-man jury found him innocent last night. He will return to navy duty.

Campaign Gets

Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Kentucky, Ohio and Michigan. Cornell has visited Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota and Wisconsin. Bell is reported on Oklahoma, New Mexico, Colorado, Wyoming, Idaho and Montana. Morin's territory includes New Jersey, Delaware, Connecticut, Rhode Island and Massachusetts. Landsberg has been in California, Oregon and Nevada.

Privately, and sometimes publicly, many political professionals agree with Whitehead's appraisal, written from Louisville, Ky.:

"So far as I can see there isn't a compelling issue or personality around to get the mass of voters excited. Business generally is good. There's no war. Nobody seems to be very mad about anything, unless it's a man who's out of a job."

REGISTRATION totals often are used in an effort to gauge public interest in a campaign. They're never too reliable—lots of people register who don't vote. This year the registration figures are particularly inconclusive—higher than 1950 in California, for instance, but lower in New York.

One thing is pretty well agreed. In this election, for the first time in many years, there is no particular crisis to steam up the voters.

Here in brief are the findings of the AP correspondents who have been in closest touch with voter sentiment:

WHITEHEAD: "So far I've seen no signs of increasing interest in the campaign, although it is likely to pick up as election day nears. With no compelling personality or issue to stir the people, the election is likely to be a contest of organization—with the better party organizations getting out the vote and perhaps making the difference."

BELL: "Voters in the southwest and Rocky mountain states, where there are several critical Senate contests, are viewing this year's campaign with extreme apathy. President Eisenhower's flexible farm price support program had been built up as a major issue. And it has that prominence in a few states. But in others the flexible vs. rigid parity proposals don't seem to strike any campaign sparks."

CORNELL: "Whether there will be a pickup in interest before election day is hard to say. You get the general impression there won't be. Proprietors of barber shops and rural beer emporiums tell you their customers don't have much to say about election."

MORIN: "Registration is at a postwar low in New York city in sptie of a concerted Democratic effort to stimulate it to support the party's ticket. Entirely composed of New York city men. In Maine, where the election already has been held, the vote exceeded 1950. But in Connecticut Vice President Nixon drew crowds of only a few hundred. Television is an invisible factor in the whole region."

LANDSBERG: "People seem weary of politics, though there has been a definite pickup of voter interest in California, Oregon and Nevada for local reasons. Nevada suddenly found itself with a senatorial race as a result of the death of Sen. McCarran (D.-Nev.)."

Pleads Innocent

Lawrence, Mass., Oct. 15 (AP)—Arthur G. Jackson, 23, of Haverill, pleaded innocent in Superior Court today to four counts charging adultery with Mrs. Lorraine Clark, 28, who is awaiting trial for murder in her husband's death last spring. One of the charges listed the date of May 19—which was about two weeks before the body of Melvin W. Clark Jr., 29, was found on the bank of the Merrimack river. Clark had been reported missing on Palm Sunday, and the state contends he was slain the night before, on April 10. Jackson also pleaded innocent to a second indictment charging him with adultery with Judith Whitcock at Newburyport on the night of April 10. She was not otherwise identified.

Case Promises

Miss Case had left for New York, told newsmen she joined the faculty this year. He said she held a bachelor of arts degree from Bucknell, and later did work at Smith College and at Teachers College of Columbia University. Miss Case could not be reached for comment.

MEANWHILE in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Mrs. Clifford P. Case, mother of the Republican senatorial nominee and Adelaide, said she did not believe her daughter was affiliated in any way with Communist party members. She said that Adelaide had been away from Poughkeepsie for about 20 years except for visits.

Mrs. Pierson S. Phelps, of Hyde Park, N. Y., a sister of Adelaide Case, said that Adelaide had never given the family any reason to believe she traveled with Communists or had any tie with them.

Both Mrs. Case and Mrs. Phelps said they had no idea of Adelaide's present whereabouts and both claimed no knowledge of another Adelaide Case, reported to have been a resident of Poughkeepsie and associated with the teaching profession in the early 1900's.

The Star-Ledger is an independent newspaper which supports President Eisenhower and usually supports Republican candidates. In its story about Adelaide Case, the newspaper referred to remarks made Wednesday by Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R.-Wis.) concerning the GOP senatorial nominee.

McCarthy, at a news conference in Washington, said he was supporting all Republican senatorial candidates with one exception — Case. Early in the campaign, Case issued a statement saying that if elected he would vote to remove McCarthy as chairman, or as a member, of the committee on government operations.

The Wisconsin senator said his reason for not supporting Case had nothing to do with the latter's campaign statement. Rather, he said, it was because of "other reasons I think will be made public before election."

There was no indication from McCarthy as to what material he was referring to. However, the Star-Ledger quoted "sources close to the Wisconsin legislator" that part of McCarthy's statement concerned reports that Miss Case "had been active in Communist-front organizations."

Case is opposed in the Senate race by Democrat Charles R. Howell, who issued a statement referring to McCarthy and saying "I won't tolerate any back street campaign in New Jersey." An aide later said the statement also was aimed at the reports mentioning Miss Case. Howell himself declared he wanted "to win on the issues."

Case's candidacy is opposed by a conservative GOP group—the Committee for a Stronger New Jersey Republican Party—which also issued a statement saying:

"The committee wishes to make it clear that . . . it . . . had no part in circulating them (reports about Miss Case). Nor does it have any intention of doing so."

The committee is pushing a write-in campaign for former Rep. Fred A. Hartley Jr. It contends that Case's voting record while in Congress was too liberal.

Strikes Are . . .

ban on overtime, imposed at the start of the year.

The city's bus strike, meanwhile, entered its third day with 15,746 of the system's 43,000 drivers and conductors idle and 3,263 of its 7,600 buses laid up.

The busmen, who lack the backing of union leaders, quit work when the state-owned Transport System introduced new schedules to spread manpower. The system is short 2,200 drivers and conductors.

The strikers claim they are being overworked to make up for the shortage and that higher wages would bring in ample recruits.

Many bridge hands remind me of the famous Sherlock Holmes case of the dog that barked in the night. When Dr. Watson pointed out that the dog hadn't barked, Holmes observed that this was exactly the point. This may all seem pretty remote from a bridge hand, but I'll try to show the connection with today's hand.

West opened the eight of diamonds, dummy played low, and East finessed the jack in the forlorn hope that his partner had led from Q-10-8. South won with the queen of diamonds, of course, much relieved that he had been spared the trouble of guessing the location of the jack of diamonds.

South continued with four rounds of trumps, discarding two low clubs from the dummy. East also discarded clubs at each opportunity.

Declarer next led the ten of diamonds, holding the trick. He continued with the nine of diamonds, and East took the ace. East returned a club, whereupon West took the ace of clubs and led a low spade through dummy's king-jack.

It was now up to South to guess whether West had led from the ace or from the queen of spades. South needed only one spade trick in the dummy, for then he could discard on the king of diamonds and also on the king of clubs.

South made the correct decision by putting up dummy's king of spades, but this was not a pure guess. South's decision was based not on what West had done but on what West had failed to do.

South knew that West had started with four trumps, a fact which would normally induce West to open a long suit. Actually, however, West had failed to open a long suit. What could be the reason for this failure?

The only reasonable explanation was that West considered both black suits unleadable. West would have been happy to lead a spade if his suit had been headed by only small cards or by the queen. The fact that West did not lead spades indicated that his holding was headed by the ace instead of by the queen.

In short, South decided that West had the ace of Spades because he had failed to open a spade.

Sacred City

More than 100 varieties of dates grow near Medina, Saudi Arabia. This city is second only to Mecca as a sacred city of the Moslem world.

HUSKING CHAMP — John Gibson displays his corn-husking form after winning the hand picking contest at the St. Joseph, Mo., jamboree. He hasn't had a shucking hook in his hand since 1944, the last time he won the contest. Farming 600 acres, 200 which are corn, Gibson has been using a corn-picking machine.

NEW SENATE RACE SHAPES UP—According to some observers the GOP has a good chance to keep control of the Senate in November. The GOP has 33 holdovers and is reasonably assured of an additional 10 more in the coming election for a total of 43, while the Democrats have 26 holdovers and are counting on an additional 15 for a total of 41. If this is true, the GOP need only win five "key states" while the Democrats would need to win eight.

As Pegler Sees It

would be an angry, frightened turmoil of unemployed, busted, destitute people.

When Eisenhower called the Korean war on account of darkness, our war business slackened and we began to get unemployment. Our automobile business got ahead of itself. Many of our farmers are farming just for government bounties for products to be stored until they spoil or until we send them as sops to the unwashed or feed them to brutes at sinful prices for animal provender.

Some constitutional, pro-American Republicans think vaguely of a political revolution and a new party composed of anti-Eisenhower Republicans and conservative Democrats of both the south and the north. These two elements would be a large aggregation if they could be aggregated. However, nobody really believes they can be, although many persons hope so. There are at least as many conservative Democrats as conservative Republicans but they have no means of communing or communicating. Dave Lawrence thinks, perhaps because he is a Democrat, that the conservative northern Republicans would be well advised to join the conservative southern and northern Democrats who are touchy about the Republican label. He may be right but that still leaves the problem of introducing these strangers and starting a "movement."

Propaganda Fails

Tokyo (AP) — Chinese Communist propaganda broadcasts to Japan are listened to by only one per cent of the nation's radio owners, says the Metropolitan Police Department. It said the Communists were "frantically" trying to get more listeners. Peiping radio has switched frequencies and has toned down some of its anti-American and anti-Japanese government propaganda, which aroused antagonism in Japan.

Sometimes Missing

Des Moines (AP) — A mother, watching her 7-year-old daughter wash the dishes, said appreciatively, "You must have Jesus in your heart." "He's there now," said the girl. "But sometimes He takes little trips."

School News

MARBLETOWN CENTRAL'S eighth grade held an organizational meeting and the following class officers were elected: Martha Larsen, president; Kenneth Countryman, vice-president; Virginia Lee McCormack, secretary and Kathryn Lorzing, treasurer. The class, now totaling 37 members, is planning its activities for the year. One of the first projects will be publication of the Emcee, the school newspaper. Fritz Fiedler was elected editor-in-chief.

Most grades are enjoying the new writing program being used this year. An activity text or work type guide is followed in all grades and time for writing classes has been set aside in the weekly program in addition to being taught in correlation with other subjects. Evidence of the good writing progress obtained so far may be found on classroom bulletin boards throughout the school.

Many grades have taken advantage of the changing season for study in their science classes. The kindergarten held a nature walk last week and upon its return exhibited wild flowers and leaves that they had collected. The third and fourth grades also displayed collections of leaves, seed dispersal charts, and have caught and watched fall insects such as grasshoppers and the praying mantis.

Many bridge hands remind me of the famous Sherlock Holmes case of the dog that barked in the night. When Dr. Watson pointed out that the dog hadn't barked, Holmes observed that this was exactly the point. This may all seem pretty remote from a bridge hand, but I'll try to show the connection with today's hand.

West opened the eight of diamonds, dummy played low, and East finessed the jack in the forlorn hope that his partner had led from Q-10-8. South won with the queen of diamonds, of course, much relieved that he had been spared the trouble of guessing the location of the jack of diamonds.

South continued with four rounds of trumps, discarding two low clubs from the dummy. East also discarded clubs at each opportunity.

Declarer next led the ten of diamonds, holding the trick. He continued with the nine of diamonds, and East took the ace. East returned a club, whereupon West took the ace of clubs and led a low spade through dummy's king-jack.

It was now up to South to guess whether West had led from the ace or from the queen of spades. South needed only one spade trick in the dummy, for then he could discard on the king of diamonds and also on the king of clubs.

South made the correct decision by putting up dummy's king of spades, but this was not a pure guess. South's decision was based not on what West had done but on what West had failed to do.

South knew that West had started with four trumps, a fact which would normally induce West to open a long suit. Actually, however, West had failed to open a long suit. What could be the reason for this failure?

The only reasonable explanation was that West considered both black suits unleadable. West would have been happy to lead a spade if his suit had been headed by only small cards or by the queen. The fact that West did not lead spades indicated that his holding was headed by the ace instead of by the queen.

In short, South decided that West had the ace of Spades because he had failed to open a spade.

Sacred City

More than 100 varieties of dates grow near Medina, Saudi Arabia. This city is second only to Mecca as a sacred city of the Moslem world.

HUSKING CHAMP — John Gibson displays his corn-husking form after winning the hand picking contest at the St. Joseph, Mo., jamboree. He hasn't had a shucking hook in his hand since 1944, the last time he won the contest. Farming 600 acres, 200 which are corn, Gibson has been using a corn-picking machine.

NEW SENATE RACE SHAPES UP—According to some observers the GOP has a good chance to keep control of the Senate in November. The GOP has 33 holdovers and is reasonably assured of an additional 10 more in the coming election for a total of 43, while the Democrats have 26 holdovers and are counting on an additional 15 for a total of 41. If this is true, the GOP need only win five "key states" while the Democrats would need to win eight.

As Pegler Sees It

would be an angry, frightened turmoil of unemployed, busted, destitute people.

When Eisenhower called the Korean war on account of darkness, our war business slackened and we began to get unemployment. Our automobile business got ahead of itself. Many of our farmers are farming just for government bounties for products to be stored until they spoil or until we send them as sops to the unwashed or feed them to brutes at sinful prices for animal provender.

Some constitutional, pro-American Republicans think vaguely of a political revolution and a new party composed of anti-Eisenhower Republicans and conservative Democrats of both the south and the north. These two elements would be a large aggregation if they could be aggregated. However, nobody really believes they can be, although many persons hope so. There are at least as many conservative Democrats as conservative Republicans but they have no means of communing or communicating. Dave Lawrence thinks, perhaps because he is a Democrat, that the conservative northern Republicans would be well advised to join the conservative southern and northern Democrats who are touchy about the Republican label. He may be right but that still leaves the problem of introducing these strangers and starting a "movement."

Propaganda Fails

Tokyo (AP) — Chinese Communist propaganda broadcasts to Japan are listened to by only one per cent of the nation's radio owners, says the Metropolitan Police Department. It said the Communits were "frantically" trying to get more listeners. Peiping radio has switched frequencies and has toned down some of its anti-American and anti-Japanese government propaganda, which aroused antagonism in Japan.

Sometimes Missing

Des Moines (AP) — A mother, watching her 7-year-old daughter wash the dishes, said appreciatively, "You must have Jesus in your heart." "He's there now," said the girl. "But sometimes He takes little trips."

School News

MARBLETOWN CENTRAL'S eighth grade held an organizational meeting and the following class officers were elected: Martha Larsen, president; Kenneth Countryman, vice-president; Virginia Lee McCormack, secretary and Kathryn Lorzing, treasurer. The class, now totaling 37 members, is planning its activities for the year. One of the first projects will be publication of the Emcee, the school newspaper. Fritz Fiedler was elected editor-in-chief.

Most grades are enjoying the new writing program being used this year. An activity text or work type guide is followed in all grades and time for writing classes has been set aside in the weekly program in addition to being taught in correlation with other subjects. Evidence of the good writing progress obtained so far may be found on classroom bulletin boards throughout the school.

Many grades have taken advantage of the changing season for study in their science classes. The kindergarten held a nature walk last week and upon its return exhibited wild flowers and leaves that they had collected. The third and fourth grades also displayed collections of leaves, seed dispersal charts, and have caught and watched fall insects such as grasshoppers and the praying mantis.

Fifth Person Is Held In Abortion Death

New York, Oct. 15 (AP)—A fifth person, a 62-year-old widow, was arrested last night in the abortion death of 24-year-old Rita McKenna, an Irish immigrant girl.

She was identified as Mrs. Nazzarena Grannantoni, already on probation for a previous abortion conviction.

Said Detective Joseph Reifneberger of New Rochelle, N. Y.: "She was with the McKenna girl when she died. She took part in the abortion. She helped dispose of the body."

Miss McKenna lived in Mount Vernon and was aborted in New Rochelle. Mrs. Grannantoni was arrested in her Bronx home but was taken to New Rochelle on a homicide charge.

The McKenna girl's body was dumped from a car into a Bronx lot where it was found Tuesday.

Previously booked on homicide charges in the case were John Forsander, 20, of White Plains; Rose Miller, 47, of New York; Mary Burgess, 32, and her husband, Donald, 25, of New Rochelle.

Forsander reportedly was a boy friend of the pretty victim. She came here from Ireland five years ago.

Kingston Hospital Graduates Told Work To Be Done on Virus

Speaking to the graduates of Kingston Hospital School of Nursing, at the commencement exercises at the high school Tuesday, Oct. 5, Dr. Anthony J. J. Rourke, of New Rochelle, pointed out that the young graduate need not be discouraged since there is still much work to be done to overcome viruses of cancer and poliomyelitis, despite great scientific progress already achieved.

Another challenge is the care of increasing numbers of aged people with special problems of adjustment. Dr. Rourke urged the graduates to think seriously of their motto, and not miss an opportunity to do good to their fellowmen.

THE VALEDICTORY address was given by Miss Ramona Robinson of Saugerties. She briefly summarized the various aspects of training during the three years at Kingston Hospital. Miss Robinson mentioned various fields in which the graduate nurse of today may enter including public health work, industrial nursing, occupational therapy, and the branches of pediatric nursing, obstetrical nursing or medical and surgical nursing.

Miss Robinson concluded her speech with the class motto, "We expect to pass through this world but once; therefore, any good we can do, or any kindness we can show to our fellowman, we do it now without deferring or neglecting it, for we shall not pass this way again."

It was announced that $500 has been given by the Alumnae Association for a scholarship to be applied for within two years of graduation. Any member of this may apply for the grant, which is to be used for post graduate study in nursing education or supervision.

MISS ELIZABETH CARR was awarded four prizes at graduation. These were $25, by Dr. Krom in memory of Dr. James Krom, for highest rating in obstetrical class, 96 per cent; $50, by board of trustees to nurse with highest degree of efficiency in entire course; $25, by Dr. Harold L. Rakov, highest average in theoretical class work during entire course, 91 per cent; and $15, by Dr. Joseph Jacobson, highest rating in class work and efficiency of surgical nursing and operating room technique.

Miss Robinson was awarded three prizes, $15 for highest examination mark in knowledge of tuberculosis, by Dr. Frederic Holcomb, 99 per cent; and $10, highest degree of efficiency in work at time of graduation, Dr. A. A. Stern prize; and $25 for next highest degree of efficiency in all respects at all times during entire course, by board of trustees.

Miss Sylvia Bell was awarded $10 by Dr. Harold A. Wilson, highest rating in ear, nose and throat lecture, 97 per cent; and $50 for greatest kindness and consideration for aged women in ward, by Capt. Andrew S. Hickey, USN, in memory of his mother, Mrs. Thomas J. Hickey.

The Mature Parent

'Blame' Is Word That Doesn't Belong in Any Parent's Mind

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

About a year ago, Tony's mother turned to a mechanical device to stop his thumb sucking. Now he is showing evidence of left-handedness. A neighbor has told his mother that she is to blame. She says that some book she's read attributes left-handedness to forcible restraint of thumb sucking.

Tony's mother has expressed her terror of this accusation in an eight-page letter. She wants to know if the neighbor's book is right.

To know that we are to "blame" for a child's problem cannot possibly enlighten us.

The word "blame" is one that no parent should ever admit into his mental household. It is a hating word for us to fight with all our strength.

To take responsibility for some mistake we have made toward a child is light years away from taking "blame" for it. One is a good, self-loving thing to do; the other an evil, self-hating thing to do.

If we hate ourselves for our mistakes, our blaming mind is never our own. It is the spokesman for the impatience and fears of the people we grew up with.

Parents cannot afford blaming minds. They do not limit their terrorization to us. Since they can offer us nothing but intolerance for our weaknesses, they can offer only the same intolerance to weakness in our children.

Perhaps this is why Tony's mother felt compelled to forcibly restrain his thumb sucking.

If she insists on knowing that she is to blame for her little boy's left-handedness, she must locate her information elsewhere. I don't believe in seeking confirmation of our badness.

What I believe in is mercy toward the weakness that could drive us to put an antisucking device upon a little child's thumb.

Certainly we cannot be proud of our fear that he will develop buck teeth and expose us to charges of dental neglect. But we are not always proud of all our feelings. Sometimes we have weak ones. It is to these we give our understanding and tenderness.

Were I Tony's mother, I should not care if all the experts around told me my mechanical device had produced his left-handedness. Instead, I should use his handicap to give him a mother more gentle toward herself.

If it taught me kinder tolerance for my mistakes, I should know that I had transformed his "handicap" into a blessing to us both.

Speakers Give Illustrated Talks Of Summer Trips

A vivid account of Norway, Sweden and Denmark was given by Mrs. G. V. D. Hutton at the annual banquet of Musical Society held Wednesday evening at Governor Clinton Hotel.

Showing colored slides of her trip this past summer Mrs. Hutton noted that the grays, blues and greens of the countries were to be seen in their pottery, china and objects d'art. She also pointed out the bright primary colors of their native costumes, and the cleanliness of their cities.

Kingston Hospital Graduates Told Work To Be Done on Virus

Speaking to the graduates of Kingston Hospital School of Nursing, at the commencement exercises at the high school Tuesday, Oct. 5, Dr. Anthony J. J. Rourke, of New Rochelle, pointed out that the young graduate need not be discouraged since there is still much work to be done to overcome viruses of cancer and poliomyelitis, despite great scientific progress already achieved.

Another challenge is the care of increasing numbers of aged people with special problems of adjustment. Dr. Rourke urged the graduates to think seriously of their motto, and not miss an opportunity to do good to their fellowmen.

THE VALEDICTORY address was given by Miss Ramona Robinson of Saugerties. She briefly summarized the various aspects of training during the three years at Kingston Hospital. Miss Robinson mentioned various fields in which the graduate nurse of today may enter including public health work, industrial nursing, occupational therapy, and the branches of pediatric nursing, obstetrical nursing or medical and surgical nursing.

Miss Robinson concluded her speech with the class motto, "We expect to pass through this world but once; therefore, any good we can do, or any kindness we can show to our fellowman, we do it now without deferring or neglecting it, for we shall not pass this way again."

It was announced that $500 has been given by the Alumnae Association for a scholarship to be applied for within two years of graduation. Any member of this may apply for the grant, which is to be used for post graduate study in nursing education or supervision.

MISS ELIZABETH CARR was awarded four prizes at graduation. These were $25, by Dr. Krom in memory of Dr. James Krom, for highest rating in obstetrical class, 96 per cent; $50, by board of trustees to nurse with highest degree of efficiency in entire course; $25, by Dr. Harold L. Rakov, highest average in theoretical class work during entire course, 91 per cent; and $15, by Dr. Joseph Jacobson, highest rating in class work and efficiency of surgical nursing and operating room technique.

Miss Robinson was awarded three prizes, $15 for highest examination mark in knowledge of tuberculosis, by Dr. Frederic Holcomb, 99 per cent; and $10, highest degree of efficiency in work at time of graduation, Dr. A. A. Stern prize; and $25 for next highest degree of efficiency in all respects at all times during entire course, by board of trustees.

Miss Sylvia Bell was awarded $10 by Dr. Harold A. Wilson, highest rating in ear, nose and throat lecture, 97 per cent; and $50 for greatest kindness and consideration for aged women in ward, by Capt. Andrew S. Hickey, USN, in memory of his mother, Mrs. Thomas J. Hickey.

Parrott, from Kingston; Elizabeth Ann Carr, Jefferson; Rose Marie Redner, Albany; Ramona Rae Robinson, Saugerties, valedictorian; Antoinette Ruchar, Brooklyn; Emma Myrtle Simpson, Kerhonkson; Marilyn Ann Thompson, Pawling; and Muriel Alma Wheeler, Saugerties.

The Mature Parent

'Blame' Is Word That Doesn't Belong in Any Parent's Mind

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

About a year ago, Tony's mother turned to a mechanical device to stop his thumb sucking. Now he is showing evidence of left-handedness. A neighbor has told his mother that she is to blame. She says that some book she's read attributes left-handedness to forcible restraint of thumb sucking.

Tony's mother has expressed her terror of this accusation in an eight-page letter. She wants to know if the neighbor's book is right.

To know that we are to "blame" for a child's problem cannot possibly enlighten us.

The word "blame" is one that no parent should ever admit into his mental household. It is a hating word for us to fight with all our strength.

To take responsibility for some mistake we have made toward a child is light years away from taking "blame" for it. One is a good, self-loving thing to do; the other an evil, self-hating thing to do.

If we hate ourselves for our mistakes, our blaming mind is never our own. It is the spokesman for the impatience and fears of the people we grew up with.

Parents cannot afford blaming minds. They do not limit their terrorization to us. Since they can offer us nothing but intolerance for our weaknesses, they can offer only the same intolerance to weakness in our children.

Perhaps this is why Tony's mother felt compelled to forcibly restrain his thumb sucking.

If she insists on knowing that she is to blame for her little boy's left-handedness, she must locate her information elsewhere. I don't believe in seeking confirmation of our badness.

What I believe in is mercy toward the weakness that could drive us to put an antisucking device upon a little child's thumb.

Certainly we cannot be proud of our fear that he will develop buck teeth and expose us to charges of dental neglect. But we are not always proud of all our feelings. Sometimes we have weak ones. It is to these we give our understanding and tenderness.

Were I Tony's mother, I should not care if all the experts around told me my mechanical device had produced his left-handedness. Instead, I should use his handicap to give him a mother more gentle toward herself.

If it taught me kinder tolerance for my mistakes, I should know that I had transformed his "handicap" into a blessing to us both.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

Crime has changed considerably in the past half a century especially in New York city according to The World newspaper of Tuesday, Jan. 16, 1894, which was given to me by Mrs. Rhinehart. One item reads: "Miss Gertie Morse, 22 years old, a typist, in a real estate office at 42nd street and 5th avenue bought a pearl-handled revolver yesterday. She lives with her parents at 141st street, and it is usually dark when she gets home from work. Saturday night, on St. Ann's avenue, a strange man met her and attempted to hug her. The young woman did not faint. Instead, she struck her assailant a stunning blow with her umbrella and got away from him and so got safely home. Now she has a pistol and knows how to use it, which she will carry with her for self-protection."

Another item tells of two men who tried to steal a horse and buggy which belonged to iceman, Charmes M. Edwards of 348 W. 48th street in New York. He had left his horse and buggy outside of 155 E. 29th street while he went inside to collect a bill. The door had hardly closed behind him, when a little boy ran in to tell him that two men took off with his buggy. Mr. Edwards, who was a big, powerful fellow, took the stoop in one leap, and was at the horse's head before the thieves got 10 yards away. The next moment he was inside the buggy and simply sat down hard on their laps, pinning the two men down into the seat. The thieves fought desperately to free themselves, but Mr. Edwards braced his feet against the dashboard and sat all the more heavier. Edwards headed the horse for the E. 29th street police station, near Madison avenue. While crossing 4th avenue one of the prisoners succeeded in getting hold of one of the reins and pulled with all his might while the other thief fought Edwards and the horse took a zig-zag course down 4th avenue.

Luckily at this juncture a beer-wagon driver seeing the plight of Edwards came to his rescue and caught hold of the horse's head, leaving Mr. Edwards free to deal with the thieves, whom he soon landed at the station house. One was a barkeeper 23 years old, and the other a bricklayer of 26. They said they were really honest men, driven to the theft by starvation. They were to get a hearing at the Jefferson Market Police Court.

In this same newspaper, J. B. Tyrrell, of the Dominion Geological Survey in Winnipeg wrote that in the barren grounds of the north he saw a sea of reindeers. He estimated their number by the 100 thousand. He said, he had an unobstructed view for 3 miles and the whole tract was covered with reindeers. "The ground is always frozen in this country except a few inches on the surface in summer. The grass thaws out during this season and the deers live on it. In winter they subsist on moss." I wonder if the reindeer herds are still there. That is real Santa Claus territory. I guess they never get them out of their wild state or train them, but they are a picturesque animal. It is said both the male and female reindeer have large branching antlers, and that they have been introduced into Alaska by the U. S. government.

Quick Dessert

Bake a can of ready-prepared refrigerated biscuits according to package directions. As soon as you remove them from the oven split and spread them with butter. Fill them with thawed frozen strawberries or raspberries, spoon a little of the fruit over the top, add big dollops of sweetened whipped cream and serve at once.

A premature baby is born every three minutes in the United States, according to a survey.

Magazine Subscription Drive to Benefit Prisma Scholarships, Exchange Students

The annual magazine drive by members of Prisma Society, Kingston High School, will begin in Kingston Monday. The girls will contact those who subscribed last year, and all potential subscribers in the campaign to raise funds for scholarships and exchange students at KHS.

A fashion show, displaying a sample wardrobe to be acquired by the prize winner, will be given in assembly Monday at the high school. Ensembles from participating stores will be modeled by students, under the direction of Miss Anne Donovan, faculty chairman of the fashion show.

First prize to the girl selling the highest number of subscriptions will be $50 worth of merchandise; $40 to the second highest; and $30 to the third, to be drawn from names of all girls selling at least three subscriptions.

MRS. MARION MURRAY, faculty advisor of Prisma Society, advises that all purchasers of subscriptions keep receipts, since there is no way of tracing magazines if receipts are lost. Subscribers are also urged to note the seller's name and address, or to contact the high school if there are any questions regarding the magazine sale. She also remarked that it may be February before first subscriptions arrive.

"This drive," said Mrs. Murray, "will enable the society to help our own students in the best way we know." Unique in this area, Prisma maintains a program of awarding scholarships, which amounted to $1300 in June, to senior girls; sending two juniors abroad for the summer through the cooperation of the American Field Service; and sponsoring an exchange student from abroad for the school year.

SUPERVISING THIS DRIVE which makes possible the work of the service organization of 500 members, is William Amann, representative from Curtis Publishing Company.

Prisma girls will conduct the magazine drive for ten days beginning Monday. Each day there will be a prize awarded the high subscription salesman, with results posted in the school lobby. The prize merchandise display in the front corridor has been assembled by Loryne Connick's retailing classes.

BOOK REVIEW

To further increase interest in the Kingston Library the following review by Mrs. G. Cramer Dodge is published.

THE SONG OF RUTH
By FRANK SLAUGHTER

The Book of Ruth is one of the shortest in Holy Scriptures, consisting of only four short chapters. Out of this brief gem of ancient writing the author has written a beautiful love story, packed with drama, romance and suspense.

Starting with the grim picture of the faithless wife of Boaz, the Lion of Judah, dead in the arms of her Moabite lover; the story goes on to tell of the meeting at the Palace of Refuge (safety zone just outside Judah) of the principal characters in the story. First to arrive is Hedak, captain of the armies of Moab, who, seeing one of his soldiers with a woman of Israel and, disregarding the safety rule, kills them both with a single thrust of his sword. A few days later Hedak returns to the Place of Refuge, accompanied by his staff and Ruth, beautiful auburn-haired hand maiden at the Temple of Chamok, pagan God of the Moabites. There they find Naomi and her ailing husband, Elimelech, and their two sons, Mahlon and Chilion, who are leaving Judah because of the famine there; and Boaz, seeking revenge upon his wife's seducer.

AT THIS MEETING there is a sharp clash between Hedak and Boaz, enemies of old. Ruth secures from Hedak safe passage to the great city of Hesbon for Elimelech's starving little family, leaving Boaz alone, brooding over his wife's infidelity.

For a while Naomi and her family live in a cave outside the city, making tools of various kinds and shining tempered swords (Mahlon and his brother are expert workers in metal). It was Hedak's purpose to use their skill solely to make swords for his army, and, in time, to use these swords against Mahlon's own tribe of Israelites.

WHEN MAHLON finally realizes the use which will be made of his swords, he is filled with remorse and tries to bring about peace between Israel and the Moabites by arranging to have Boaz brought to Hesbon for a conference with the King.

Meantime Mahlon's love for Ruth has overcome her objections to his faith and she has agreed to marry him and also to accept his religion. This she does surreptitiously, while continuing to serve at the temple of Chermok.

RUTH DOUBTS the sincerity of Hedak when he agrees to the settlement plan, and sends a note of warning to Boaz by Cheb, the sly messenger, who also carries the tablet of safe passage from Hedak. Of course Cheb doesn't deliver Ruth's message and Boaz comes to Hesbon, unwarned. At a ceremonial dinner in honor of Boaz a trap is set for him by Hedak. Next morning it snaps shut when the old king dies and Boaz is accused of poisoning him. Boaz is arrested and is about to be burned alive in the fire of the great God, Chermok. At the critical moment the God of Israel intervenes with a terrific thunderstorm which puts out the fire and causes a state of confusion in which the new little king flees in terror and Ruth leads Boaz through a maze of passages back to the temple to freedom. But at the cost of the lives of Mahlon and Chilion who try to follow them.

AFTER THAT LIFE is no longer possible in Moab for Ruth and Naomi. Naomi starts to return to Judah, bidding Ruth to return to her own people. That is when Ruth makes her lovely plea to Naomi, "Entreat me not to leave thee. . . ."

So Ruth goes with Naomi. For a time life is very hard for them in Judah. As the widow of Mahlon; Ruth can be forced to marry mean, despicable Tob, Naomi's next of kin. How Ruth, unused to manual labor, joins the gleaners in the fields of Boaz to eke out a living for herself and Naomi; how she eludes the advances and threats of lustful Tob, and endures spiteful tongues of Israelite women, jealous of her great beauty, and how she finally finds happiness and security in a new love is a well-told tale.

THE SCENES of barbaric splendor, pagan rites and human sacrifice to a pagan God of Moab are portrayed in vivid contrast to the stern laws of the God of Israel and the simple life of his people point up the wide difference between the forces of good and evil of ancient times.

ANNIVERSARY NO LONGER CELEBRATED

A letter explains: " I belong to the women's guild of our church. There are twenty members in all and at each meeting we contribute fifty cents. Whenever any of the members has a birthday or anniversary, a present is bought out of this money and presented to that person. One of the members lost her husband six months ago. Her wedding anniversary is next month and we don't know what to do about giving her a present. If we give her something it might make her sad and if we don't she might feel hurt. What do you advise?"

You shouldn't give her anything for her anniversary with husband now gone. If you really want to give her something wait until Christmas or New Year's and tell her that you hope the New Year will give her some happiness.

Wedding Present Obligation

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband is a salesman and because of his many business connections he receives unceasing invitations to the weddings of his customer's daughters. He feels, and I am inclined to agree, that they call for presents, but at the same time I would like to ask you if sending such presents to these completely unknown brides is an obligation?

Answer: Although it is quite customary to send them, they are very definitely not an obligation, unless he has been made a friend of the family and knows the bride.

Declining Invitation

Dear Mrs. Post: My son is going to be married soon in another city and the bride's grandmother has invited my husband and me to stay at her house. For personal reasons I would much prefer to go to a hotel. Would it be rude to decline her offer?

Answer: Thank her very appreciatively, and give a serious reason—such as unreasonable hour for breakfast or a special diet which can most easily be given you in a hotel.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

Crime has changed considerably in the past half a century especially in New York city according to The World newspaper of Tuesday, Jan. 16, 1894, which was given to me by Mrs. Rhinehart. One item reads: "Miss Gertie Morse, 22 years old, a typist, in a real estate office at 42nd street and 5th avenue bought a pearl-handled revolver yesterday. She lives with her parents at 141st street, and it is usually dark when she gets home from work. Saturday night, on St. Ann's avenue, a strange man met her and attempted to hug her. The young woman did not faint. Instead, she struck her assailant a stunning blow with her umbrella and got away from him and so got safely home. Now she has a pistol and knows how to use it, which she will carry with her for self-protection."

Another item tells of two men who tried to steal a horse and buggy which belonged to iceman, Charmes M. Edwards of 348 W. 48th street in New York. He had left his horse and buggy outside of 155 E. 29th street while he went inside to collect a bill. The door had hardly closed behind him, when a little boy ran in to tell him that two men took off with his buggy. Mr. Edwards, who was a big, powerful fellow, took the stoop in one leap, and was at the horse's head before the thieves got 10 yards away. The next moment he was inside the buggy and simply sat down hard on their laps, pinning the two men down into the seat. The thieves fought desperately to free themselves, but Mr. Edwards braced his feet against the dashboard and sat all the more heavier. Edwards headed the horse for the E. 29th street police station, near Madison avenue. While crossing 4th avenue one of the prisoners succeeded in getting hold of one of the reins and pulled with all his might while the other thief fought Edwards and the horse took a zig-zag course down 4th avenue.

Luckily at this juncture a beer-wagon driver seeing the plight of Edwards came to his rescue and caught hold of the horse's head, leaving Mr. Edwards free to deal with the thieves, whom he soon landed at the station house. One was a barkeeper 23 years old, and the other a bricklayer of 26. They said they were really honest men, driven to the theft by starvation. They were to get a hearing at the Jefferson Market Police Court.

In this same newspaper, J. B. Tyrrell, of the Dominion Geological Survey in Winnipeg wrote that in the barren grounds of the north he saw a sea of reindeers. He estimated their number by the 100 thousand. He said, he had an unobstructed view for 3 miles and the whole tract was covered with reindeers. "The ground is always frozen in this country except a few inches on the surface in summer. The grass thaws out during this season and the deers live on it. In winter they subsist on moss." I wonder if the reindeer herds are still there. That is real Santa Claus territory. I guess they never get them out of their wild state or train them, but they are a picturesque animal. It is said both the male and female reindeer have large branching antlers, and that they have been introduced into Alaska by the U. S. government.

Quick Dessert

Bake a can of ready-prepared refrigerated biscuits according to package directions. As soon as you remove them from the oven split and spread them with butter. Fill them with thawed frozen strawberries or raspberries, spoon a little of the fruit over the top, add big dollops of sweetened whipped cream and serve at once.

Middies Hail Return Of Onorati to Squad

TACKLING HIGH — Jim Colclough of Quincy grips helmet of Brookline's John Norris during tussle between Massachusetts high school grid rivals at Brookline. Quincy won, 13-6.

Blocking Back Big Asset Against KHS

As if they needed more ammunition to furnish a hectic afternoon for Kingston High tomorrow, the Middies of Middletown are overjoyed at the return of blocking back Ray Onorati.

The Wilson Field clash at 2 p. m. is the first DUSO outing for Coach John Nania's gridders and the second for Kingston.

At the same time, a favored Poughkeepsie squad will be taking on the Red Raiders at Port Jervis.

ONORATI'S return means that for the first time this season the Middies will have their No. 1 backfield quartet in operation. And halfback Ray Myers, the squad passer, is the one most likely to cause Kingston serious concern.

Kim Hunter and Nat King can fly. It was King's 98 yard sprint with an intercepted pass that sparked a sensational Middletown rally that trounced A. B. Davis of Yonkers, 21-12 last Saturday.

The contest might develop into a tremendous line duel. The Middie forwards are said to be among the best in the league but they will have to be at their peak to contain Kingston's quartet of Gene Massa, Bob Nash, Charlie Johnson and Ronnie Ashdown.

IF THE TWO lines are hitting, the game could produce frequent fumbles and Kingston has been outstanding in the recovery department. Gene Massa has been a particularly sharp ballhawk all season.

This could easily be a game decided by a single point. The Middies eschewed the placement kick on three different occasions against A. B. Davis. Twice Myers passed and the third time he plunged over. Such versatility means that Kingston will have to be wary of any extra point attempt.

Meanwhile, Poughkeepsie High is not expected to encounter too much trouble at Port Jervis. The Blues have Charlie Johnson ready and that should be enough.

Mayo Smith Replaces Moore as Phils Pilot

By BEN PHLEGAR
The Associated Press

The major league managerial merry-go-round is spinning at the fastest clip in history with a chance that two more baseball bosses may be ousted in the near future.

Since the 1953 World Series, 10 of the 16 clubs have changed managers, two of them twice.

The latest switch came suddenly in Philadelphia yesterday where the Phillies named Mayo Smith, a greying stranger from the New York Yankees minor league farm system, to replace Terry Moore. Moore had been around only since July 15 when he took over from Steve O'Neill.

The appointment of Smith, the newest new man, came as a total surprise in Philadelphia although Moore's personal future had been uncertain. The 39-year-old mild-mannered southerner managed Birmingham to third place in the Southern Association the past season.

His major league experience consists of 73 games as a left-handed hitting outfielder for the Athletics in 1945 and his players will have to do better than he did to make the grade. In the tail-end of wartime baseball Smith hit only .212.

He has been managing in the Yankee chain since 1949 when he started with Amsterdam, N. Y., in the Class C Canadian-American League. He won pennants in the Class B Piedmont League with Norfolk in 1951 and 1952 before moving to Birmingham.

General Manager Roy Hamey said Moore was dropped because he lacked experience as a manager.

Bob Gantt was leading scorer on the Duke football team in 1943 with only one touchdown. He got the other 41 points on conversions.

TALE OF THE CALICO SHIRT

by J. P. Van Winkle
President
Stitzel-Weller Distillery
Louisville, Kentucky
Established 1849

Back in the old days a Kentucky farm woman would come to the general store and buy yard goods by the bolt.

It was easy to spot her family after that. Every member looked alike—shirts, dresses, aprons, bonnets — all in the same pattern of calico.

'Round that time in Kentucky old John E. Fitzgerald started making the famous sour mash bourbon which still bears his name. Folks could identify his whiskey every time too. Like the farm family, every bottle was like every other—rich, full-flavored satisfying.

Today we still make OLD FITZGERALD on the identical formula that John E. perfected more than 75 years ago. And our customers often wonder how we maintain that self-same flavor year after year.

The reason is we relate each new distillation to the last. We do that by saving out a portion of each batch to season the next. This pre-flavoring process, called "stilling back," is a vital part of Fitzgerald's original Sour Mash method, and enabled him, as it enables us, to keep the chain of identical flavor and quality unbroken and unduplicated to this very day.

We have a saying around our family distillery that we inherited the formula from old John, but that the whiskey inherits its pedigreed flavor from itself.

For your business entertaining you want a bourbon that identifies you as a wise and discerning host—a whiskey of unsurpassed character not just occasionally but in every bottle, case after case. One of our oldest customers describes Old Fitz as "sound as a nut—alike as peas in a pod!"

We invite you to join the inner circle of business executives who have discovered this uniform excellence, and find it good business to share with associates and friends.

Basilio-Gronik Bout Tonight

Syracuse, Oct. 15 (AP)—Carmen Basilio, the No. 1 welterweight contender, and hopeful Allie Gronik of Detroit slug it out tonight for a crack at the winner of the Kid Gavilan-Johnny Saxton title match.

About 5,000 fans are expected for the nationally televised (NBC) 10-round scrap at the War Memorial Auditorium.

Basilio lost a split decision in a title go to Gavilan a year ago. He has won 42—scoring knockouts in 19—lost 11 and drawn 6.

Gronik has lost only one of his last 17 starts—to second-ranked welter contender Del Flanagan. Gronik's record shows 55 wins, 12 defeats and 5 draws. He won 27 by knockouts.

Medley Hanover Cops Feature

Yonkers, Oct. 15 (AP)—Medley Hanover, a one-eyed 3-year-old filly driven by her owner Eugene Pownall of Orlando, Fla., won the featured Glenwood pace at Yonkers Raceway last night by a nose in 2:05.3.

The nimble Hanover filly won in a drive in the last 50 yards from Buffalo Street, guided by Bill Haughton and Terka Hanover, piloted by John Simpson.

Terka Hanover led most of the mile and was caught by Buffalo Street at the head of the stretch, but Medley Hanover outbrushed them both in the final strides. She paid $6.90, $3.70, $2.80 in registering her 10th victory in 21 starts this year.

Five for Willie

San Bruno, Calif., Oct. 15 (AP)—The only jockey to enter the winner's circle at Tanforan track for the first five races yesterday was Wee Willie Shoemaker. It boosted his total for the year to 324. Three of the winners he rode yesterday paid more than $7, a good price for a mount with Shoemaker up on the western tracks.

Youngstown, Ohio — L. C. Morgan, 138, Youngstown, stopped Elmer Lakatos, 137, Youngstown, 5.

New York (Sunnyside Arena)—Ray Drake, 160, Brooklyn, outpointed Phil Rizzo, 158, Brooklyn, 8.

Dilemma Mounting in Philly; Roy Mack Stymies A's Switch

Philadelphia, Oct. 15 (AP)—Abner Doubleday and the Supreme Court notwithstanding, a simple sport never could become as confusing as the current situation involving the Philadelphia Athletics' franchise.

Abner invented what he considered a reasonably uncomplicated game and the Supreme Court ruled that major league baseball isn't big business in the full meaning of the term.

But the future of the A's today was a giant puzzle with Roy Mack, the club's executive vice president, holding the key.

Roy has until 11 a. m., EST, next Monday to make up his mind, once and for all, whether he was (1) ready to sell the Athletics to Chicago real estate dealer Arnold Johnson or (2) produce enough capital to keep the club in Philadelphia.

Mack reportedly was scurrying around seeking prospective "angels," but at latest report hadn't come up—publicly at least—with any.

THREE PHILADELPHIA syndicates have been dickering with Roy in the past few days, one headed by John P. Crisconi, retired automobile dealer. Crisconi met with Roy yesterday but those "in the know" insist he—like the other two syndicates—failed to come up with sufficient cash to swing any tangible deal.

Roy tossed a bombshell into the works yesterday by announcing he had not—contrary to the generally accepted belief—agreed to sell his interest in the club when he attended an American League meeting in Chicago last Tuesday.

That statement surprised, among others, Johnson, the only individual thus far to put cash on the line for the franchise. Johnson said he was under the definite impression the sale of the A's to him for transfer to Kansas City was practically an accomplished fact.

"I HAVE NOT SOLD my stock," said Roy. "The last thing I said before leaving the meeting in Chicago was 'I am in a closely-knit family and I want the chance to talk it over with them' and I'm still struggling."

One A's spokesman—unnamed at his request—said "there is a definite chance of the A's staying in Philadelphia." He added:

"But of course, Roy isn't getting his hopes too high. He's had too many disappointments."

All this left Will Harridge, American League president, a little confused, too. Commented Harridge:

"We took up and disposed of the matter of selling to Johnson and the transfer to Kansas City at Roy Mack's request. We (the American League owners) gave him until 11 a. m. Monday to make up his mind. At the meeting he said he would accept Johnson's offer. If he changes his mind, I suppose that is his prerogative.

"There is nothing further to say, We just have to sit and wait."

Hoople and Zlobotny Pick KingstonandPoughkeepsie

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE
(Royal Astronomer)

Egad! Here we are at the halfway mark of the football season and your peerless correspondent is picking upsets right and left—but letters still keep trickling in from mislead misanthropes castigating me for picking the Indians to win the World Series.

It is almost enough to make a man pick up his typewriter, walk calmly to the window and let it drop four stories to see which way the machine bounces. In fact, the leash I hold on my temper is slipping dangerously. Beware!

(Editor's Note: The major has been moody since the World Series, stalking the streets with his chin buried in his coat, glowering at all who ask: "What happened to the Indians?" If that isn't trouble, how about those DUSO picks for the weekend?)

My good friend, Bill Burke's Maroons reach the halfway mark in their DUSO pennant chase Saturday at Middletown.

NOW THERE'S a call that needs the combined wizardry of Einstein, Edison and my staunch right bower, Dr. Zlobotny.

The crystal ball is shady and hazy, maybe it's the Blue of the Middies or the Maroon of Kingston. But when the residue settles, I think it will show the Maroons on top. Middletown is coming along under that new feller, John Nania, they say, but Kingston against Curtis High looked good enough to beat any DUSO team.

Now that Poughkeepsie trip to Port Jervis. Shouldn't cause Sam Kalloch too much aggravation if that slickster, Charlie Johnson, is up and ready to go. Without Johnson, though, the Blues could be all that on that return trip to Poughkeepsie.

On the national scene was it not I who gave you South Carolina to defeat Army, and the very next week Army to humble mighty Michigan. Indeed it was!

AND THIS WEEK I'm passing along some more startling upsets—Wisconsin to humble Purdue, which conquered Notre Dame; Ohio State to surprise Iowa; Stanford to trample the vaunted hosts of UCLA.

Look into the future, folks, and read on!

Middies Hail Return Of Onorati to Squad

TACKLING HIGH — Jim Colclough of Quincy grips helmet of Brookline's John Norris during tussle between Massachusetts high school grid rivals at Brookline. Quincy won, 13-6.

Blocking Back Big Asset Against KHS

As if they needed more ammunition to furnish a hectic afternoon for Kingston High tomorrow, the Middies of Middletown are overjoyed at the return of blocking back Ray Onorati.

The Wilson Field clash at 2 p. m. is the first DUSO outing for Coach John Nania's gridders and the second for Kingston.

At the same time, a favored Poughkeepsie squad will be taking on the Red Raiders at Port Jervis.

ONORATI'S return means that for the first time this season the Middies will have their No. 1 backfield quartet in operation. And halfback Ray Myers, the squad passer, is the one most likely to cause Kingston serious concern.

Kim Hunter and Nat King can fly. It was King's 98 yard sprint with an intercepted pass that sparked a sensational Middletown rally that trounced A. E. Davis of Yonkers, 21-12 last Saturday.

The contest might develop into a tremendous line duel. The Middie forwards are said to be among the best in the league but they will have to be at their peak to contain Kingston's quartet of Gene Massa, Bob Nash, Charlie Johnson and Ronnie Ashdown.

IF THE TWO lines are hitting, the game could produce frequent fumbles and Kingston has been outstanding in the recovery department. Gene Massa has been a particularly sharp ballhawk all season.

This could easily be a game decided by a single point. The Middies eschewed the placement kick on three different occasions against A. B. Davis. Twice Myers passed and the third time he plunged over. Such versatility means that Kingston will have to be wary of any extra point attempt.

Meanwhile, Poughkeepsie High is not expected to encounter too much trouble at Port Jervis. The Blues have Charlie Johnson ready and that should be enough.

THREE PHILADELPHIA syndicates have been dickering with Roy in the past few days, one headed by John P. Crisconi, retired automobile dealer. Crisconi met with Roy yesterday but those "in the know" insist he—like the other two syndicates—failed to come up with sufficient cash to swing any tangible deal.

Roy tossed a bombshell into the works yesterday by announcing he had not—contrary to the generally accepted belief—agreed to sell his interest in the club when he attended an American League meeting in Chicago last Tuesday.

That statement surprised, among others, Johnson, the only individual thus far to put cash on the line for the franchise. Johnson said he was under the definite impression the sale of the A's to him for transfer to Kansas City was practically an accomplished fact.

"I HAVE NOT SOLD my stock," said Roy. "The last thing I said before leaving the meeting in Chicago was 'I am in a closely-knit family and I want the chance to talk it over with them' and I'm still struggling."

One A's spokesman—unnamed at his request—said "there is a definite chance of the A's staying in Philadelphia." He added:

"But of course, Roy isn't getting his hopes too high. He's had too many disappointments."

All this left Will Harridge, American League president, a little confused, too. Commented Harridge:

"We took up and disposed of the matter of selling to Johnson and the transfer to Kansas City at Roy Mack's request. We (the American League owners) gave him until 11 a. m. Monday to make up his mind. At the meeting he said he would accept Johnson's offer. If he changes his mind, I suppose that is his prerogative.

"There is nothing further to say. We just have to sit and wait."

Hoople and Zlobotny Pick Kingston and Poughkeepsie

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE
(Royal Astronomer)

Egad! Here we are at the halfway mark of the football season and your peerless correspondent is picking upsets right and left—but letters still keep trickling in from mislead misanthropes castigating me for picking the Indians to win the World Series.

It is almost enough to make a man pick up his typewriter, walk calmly to the window and let it drop four stories to see which way the machine bounces. In fact, the leash I hold on my temper is slipping dangerously. Beware!

(Editor's Note: The major has been moody since the World Series, stalking the streets with his chin buried in his coat, glowering at all who ask: "What happened to the Indians?" If that isn't trouble, how about those DUSO picks for the weekend?)

My good friend, Bill Burke's Maroons reach the halfway mark in their DUSO pennant chase Saturday at Middletown.

NOW THERE'S a call that needs the combined wizardy of Einstein, Edison and my staunch right bower, Dr. Zlobotny.

The crystal ball is shady and hazy, maybe it's the Blue of the Middies or the Maroon of Kingston. But when the residue settles, I think it will show the Maroons on top. Middletown is coming along under that new feller, John Nania, they say, but Kingston against Curtis High looked good enough to beat any DUSO team.

Now that Poughkeepsie trip to Port Jervis. Shouldn't cause Sam Kalloch too much aggravation if that slickster, Charlie Johnson, is up and ready to go. Without Johnson, though, the Blues could be all that on that return trip to Poughkeepsie.

On the national scene was it not I who gave you South Carolina to defeat Army, and the very next week Army to humble mighty Michigan. Indeed it was!

AND THIS WEEK I'm passing along some more startling upsets—Wisconsin to humble Purdue, which conquered Notre Dame; Ohio State to surprise Iowa; Stanford to trample the vaunted hosts of UCLA.

Look into the future, folks, and read on!

Mayo Smith Replaces Moore as Phils Pilot

By BEN PHLEGAR
The Associated Press

The major league managerial merry-go-round is spinning at the fastest clip in history with a chance that two more baseball bosses may be ousted in the near future.

Since the 1953 World Series, 10 of the 16 clubs have changed managers, two of them twice.

The latest switch came suddenly in Philadelphia yesterday where the Phillies named Mayo Smith, a greying stranger from the New York Yankees minor league farm system, to replace Terry Moore. Moore had been around only since July 15 when he took over from Steve O'Neill.

The appointment of Smith, the newest new man, came as a total surprise in Philadelphia although Moore's personal future had been uncertain. The 39-year-old mild-mannered southerner managed Birmingham to third place in the Southern Association the past season.

His major league experience consists of 73 games as a left-handed hitting outfielder for the Athletics in 1945 and his players will have to do better than he did to make the grade. In the tail-end of wartime baseball Smith hit only .212.

He has been managing in the Yankee chain since 1949 when he started with Amsterdam, N. Y., in the Class C Canadian-American League. He won pennants in the Class B Piedmont League with Norfolk in 1951 and 1952 before moving to Birmingham.

General Manager Roy Hamey said Moore was dropped because he lacked experience as a manager.

Bob Gantt was leading scorer on the Duke football team in 1943 with only one touchdown. He got the other 41 points on conversions.

Kelder Has 599 Series Jansen 540

Major League keglers sweltered through one of those nights at the Bowlodrome.

There wasn't a "600" in sight —Randy Kelder's 599 was the best—and a dozen of the city's best pinmen dipped below the 500 mark.

Best team triple was the 2673 compiled by Old Capital Motors.

Kelder compiled his league leading series with lines of 199-200-200, mighty close to one of those ABC shoulder patches.

Elwood Robinson captured high single honors with a modest 218.

ONE OF THE old pros in the distaff department—Marge Jansen—found alley conditions a bit more lucrative at the Central Recs, where she slammed a hefty 540 with games of 155, 186 and 199.

ELWOOD ROBINSON built his 218 single into the runnerup series of 575 in the Ferraro Major.

The line-splitting rushes of Alan (The Horse) Ameche will be matched with the deadly pitching arm of Lenny Dawson tomorrow, when Wisconsin and Purdue clash at Lafayette, Ind., in the battle of second and fifth ranked football powers.

The game between the two unbeaten Big Ten teams—Purdue was tied by Duke last week—features a pressurized schedule which will have the attention of bowl and All America selectors.

Behind Ameche's powerful running, Wisconsin has swept through its first three games without a defeat. Dawson pitched Purdue to victory over Missouri and Notre Dame before being shackled last week in a 13-13 tie with Duke.

Duke, also unbeaten and possessing what may be the strongest team in all Dixie, will have its own hands full at Durham, N. C., where it meets a swift-hitting Army team which has scored one-sided victories over Michigan and Dartmouth.

THE PARLOR quarterback will have to wait until the late afternoon and take his attention all the way to the Pacific Coast for the televised game of the week. It's the game between Southern California and Oregon, with its own Rose Bowl interest, to be telecast nationally over ABC at 4:15 p. m. (EST).

Holding prime regional interest are such games as West Virginia at Penn State, pitting two unbeaten elevens of the east; Michigan State at Notre Dame, Alabama at Tennessee and Arkansas at Texas.

Oklahoma, which catapulted into the No. 1 position in the Associated Press poll on convincing victories over California, Texas Christian and Texas, moves into its own league—the Big 7—where the dangers aren't as grave. The Sooners play Kansas and they rule a three-touchdown favorite.

UCLA, third ranked behind Oklahoma and Wisconsin, has a home date with up-and-down Stanford and the experts figure the Uclans, the last Rose Bowl representatives, have enough single wing power to win by 13 points.

OHIO STATE, also unbeaten, is host to Iowa and Minnesota, the surprise of the Big Ten with three straight triumphs, takes on an Illinois team which hasn't got moving. Ohio State is fourth ranked nationally while Minnesota is No. 11. Both are favored.

Mississippi, No. 7, is host to Tulane, a 26-point underdog, while Notre Dame, No. 8, is a touchdown pick over Michigan State at South Bend.

Penn State, which started Illinois off on the rocky road of disaster, is tied with Navy for ninth place in the latest poll.

Navy goes to Pittsburgh.

Other top games include:

Friday Night

Boston College at Fordham, Mississippi State at Miami (Fla.), Villanova at Detroit.

Saturday

EAST — Princeton at Brown, Cornell at Yale, Colgate at Dartmouth, Columbia at Harvard, North Carolina at Maryland, Marquette at Holy Cross, William and Mary at Rutgers.

Harriman Hits Niagara Plan as Play to Utilities

Watertown, Oct. 15 (AP)—Averell Harriman said today the so-called New York plan of "Dewey Republicans" to develop Niagara electric power is a "sneak play" that would enrich private utilities at the expense of the people.

Harriman, Democratic-Liberal nominee for governor, called instead for "publicly or cooperatively owned utilities to acquire and market power at reasonable rates." Proponents call this the "yardstick" concept, once described by the late President Roosevelt as the "birch rod in the closet," to show the difference in the cost to consumer of publicly owned versus privately owned electric power.

"NOW I WANT to say in the plainest possible language that we Democrats will not allow the development of St. Lawrence and Niagara to be used to perpetuate monopolistic control of the people's power," Harriman said in a prepared address.

He turned to the power issue, a topic of keen interest to northern New York, on the third and final day of a three-day upstate campaign tour.

Under the New York plan that he denounced, power would be developed publicly at the site, then would be turned over by contract to private utilities, for distribution over its transmission lines. The state would control rates charged to consumers.

Harriman said the development of the Niagara and the St. Lawrence would top "the miracles wrought at the TVA, Grand Coulee and Bonneville."

Hilleboe Elected

Buffalo, Oct. 15 (AP)—Dr. Herman E. Hilleboe, New York state commissioner of health, last night moved up to the presidency of the American Public Health Association.

"LEFT IN THE LURCH"

If you are left in a lurch, you are suddenly left without a chance according to the use of the expression today. However, it started with the gambling game of "lurche," where if one player got all the points before the other started, it was termed as being, "left in the lurche" (or without a chance to play).

Union-Fern Sale Boomed by Ads Printed in Papers

"Terrific" was the word used by Charles Fabiano, manager of the Union-Fern store at 328 Wall street, in describing response to the firm's current Heart's Desire Month promotion.

The promotion, which began October 1 and continues through the end of the month, has already brought customers to the store in such numbers that extra sales help had to be hired, Fabiano said.

All of the Union-Fern chain's 13 stores are participating in the promotion. On Nov. 2, the 20 winners drawn will receive free the item listed on their entry blank. In the event a winning customer has already purchased from the store the item listed, his purchase price will be refunded, Fabiano said.

The Heart's Desire promotion is the first of its type sponsored by Union-Fern. The campaign made heavy use of newspaper advertising, including locally to date the equivalent of five full pages of advertising plus six smaller advertisements of the "teaser" type.

RUNAWAY ARTISTS—Mississippi's Allen Muirhead, left, and Navy line-cracker Joe Gattuso are a pair of collegiate backs who can run away and hide from the opposition. Muirhead went 62 against Vanderbilt and Gattuso showed his stuff against Stanford when he smashed the line for three straight first downs, then stepped out for a 37-yard TD dash. (NEA)

Wisconsin-Purdue Test Of Undefeated Powers

(By The Associated Press)

The line-splitting rushes of Alan (The Horse) Ameche will be matched with the deadly pitching arm of Lenny Dawson tomorrow, when Wisconsin and Purdue clash at Lafayette, Ind., in the battle of second and fifth ranked football powers.

The game between the two unbeaten Big Ten teams—Purdue was tied by Duke last week—features a pressurized schedule which will have the attention of bowl and All America selectors.

Behind Ameche's powerful running, Wisconsin has swept through its first three games without a defeat. Dawson pitched Purdue to victory over Missouri and Notre Dame before being shackled last week in a 13-13 tie with Duke.

Duke, also unbeaten and possessing what may be the strongest team in all Dixie, will have its own hands full at Durham, N. C., where it meets a swift-hitting Army team which has scored one-sided victories over Michigan and Dartmouth.

THE PARLOR quarterback will have to wait until the late afternoon and take his attention all the way to the Pacific Coast for the televised game of the week. It's the game between Southern California and Oregon, with its own Rose Bowl interest, to be telecast nationally over ABC at 4:15 p. m. (EST).

Holding prime regional interest are such games as West Virginia at Penn State, pitting two unbeaten elevens of the east; Michigan State at Notre Dame, Alabama at Tennessee and Arkansas at Texas.

Oklahoma, which catapulted into the No. 1 position in the Associated Press poll on convincing victories over California, Texas Christian and Texas, moves into its own league—the Big 7—where the dangers aren't as grave. The Sooners play Kansas and they rule a three-touchdown favorite.

UCLA, third ranked behind Oklahoma and Wisconsin, has a home date with up-and-down Stanford and the experts figure the Uclans, the last Rose Bowl representatives, have enough single wing power to win by 13 points.

OHIO STATE, also unbeaten, is host to Iowa and Minnesota, the surprise of the Big Ten with three straight triumphs, takes on an Illinois team which hasn't got moving. Ohio State is fourth ranked nationally while Minnesota is No. 11. Both are favored.

Mississippi, No. 7, is host to Tulane, a 26-point underdog, while Notre Dame, No. 8, is a touchdown pick over Michigan State at South Bend.

Penn State, which started Illinois off on the rocky road of disaster, is tied with Navy for ninth place in the latest poll.

Navy goes to Pittsburgh.

Other top games include:

Friday Night

Boston College at Fordham, Mississippi State at Miami (Fla.), Villanova at Detroit.

Saturday

EAST — Princeton at Brown, Cornell at Yale, Colgate at Dartmouth, Columbia at Harvard, North Carolina at Maryland, Marquette at Holy Cross, William and Mary at Rutgers.

Rookie Center Wrecks Rangers

(By The Associated Press)

Don McKenney, 20-year-old rookie center, is losing no time proving to the Boston Bruins they made a wise move in bringing him up from Hershey of the American League.

The young center counted twice last night as the Bruins defeated the New York Rangers 5-3 in the only National Hockey League game. The victory moved the Bruins into third place in the standings.

Harriman Hits Niagara Plan as Play to Utilities

Watertown, Oct. 15 (AP)—Averell Harriman said today the so-called New York plan of "Dewey Republicans" to develop Niagara electric power is a "sneak play" that would enrich private utilities at the expense of the people.

Harriman, Democratic-Liberal nominee for governor, called instead for "publicly or cooperatively owned utilities to acquire and market power at reasonable rates." Proponents call this the "yardstick" concept, once described by the late President Roosevelt as the "birch rod in the closet," to show the difference in the cost to consumer of publicly owned versus privately owned electric power.

"NOW I WANT to say in the plainest possible language that we Democrats will not allow the development of St. Lawrence and Niagara to be used to perpetuate monopolistic control of the people's power," Harriman said in a prepared address.

He turned to the power issue, a topic of keen interest to northern New York, on the third and final day of a three-day upstate campaign tour.

Under the New York plan that he denounced, power would be developed publicly at the site, then would be turned over by contract to private utilities, for distribution over its transmission lines. The state would control rates charged to consumers.

Harriman said the development of the Niagara and the St. Lawrence would top "the miracles wrought at the TVA, Grand Coulee and Bonneville."

Hilleboe Elected

Union-Fern Sale Boomed by Ads Printed in Papers

"Terrific" was the word used by Charles Fabiano, manager of the Union-Fern store at 328 Wall street, in describing response to the firm's current Heart's Desire Month promotion.

The promotion, which began October 1 and continues through the end of the month, has already brought customers to the store in such numbers that extra sales help had to be hired, Fabiano said.

All of the Union-Fern chain's 13 stores are participating in the promotion. On Nov. 2, the 20 winners drawn will receive free the item listed on their entry blank. In the event a winning customer has already purchased from the store the item listed, his purchase price will be refunded, Fabiano said.

The Heart's Desire promotion is the first of its type sponsored by Union-Fern. The campaign made heavy use of newspaper advertising, including locally to date the equivalent of five full pages of advertising plus six smaller advertisements of the "teaser" type.

BUSY NURSE STOPS COLD

"I drive long miles to call on sick people during the winter," says nurse Irene Buckley of Chappaqua, N. Y. "I have to stop the cold in my car's cooling system, so my car will be ready to go all thru the winter. That's why I always put 'PRESTONE' anti-freeze in my car before freezing weather is due."

There's only one "PRESTONE" brand. Ask for it by name—make sure you get it. New low price only $2.95 per gallon.

Lean and Hungry Look

Meriden, Conn. (AP)—The burglar who broke into a restaurant, police figured, was a lean and hungry man. The bars which guarded the window he used were about seven inches apart. He ate half a pie.

Durable Blacksmith

Stonewall, Man. (AP)—Steve Fell of Stonewall has been blacksmithing for 74 of his 89 years. But he has no plans to retire. Fifty-eight years ago, when he started his own business there was competition to worry about, but not any more. "There were six blacksmiths in town when I started. Somehow I managed to last out."

Today's Carstairs is the most underpriced whiskey in New York State

— say quality-wise whiskey buyers

FRED S. BATSFORD, Bookkeeper
13 Watson Pl., Utica, N. Y.
"I don't like a whiskey you have to dilute with a lot of mixer in order to kill the harsh taste. I like one that's full-bodied, yet smooth and easy to drink—that's why Carstairs is my favorite."

WARREN SLOSSON,
Service Station Owner
1410 S. Salina, Syracuse, N. Y.
"Carstairs has a smoothness and fine flavor I would expect to find only in whiskies costing a lot more."

All over, men who know fine whiskey are choosing Carstairs as the outstanding value in the market.

It tastes better because it is made better—from premium-priced, selected grains—by expensive, exclusive methods—with 129 exacting quality controls from grain to bottle.

No wonder Carstairs is the top whiskey buy—the whiskey you can stay with. Try it!

MEMO TO ADVERTISERS

"Hardware is my Business"..

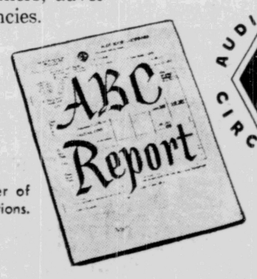

"To me the satisfaction of supplying people with quality merchandise and service is the outstanding reward of running a hardware store. There are high industry standards for the tools, appliances and supplies that I handle, and in selecting merchandise for my customers, I make sure that my stock meets these rigid requirements. To keep people reminded of my store and services and to announce new merchandise, I use newspaper advertising regularly. It's an effective way to send the news about my store to the people in this community."

All businessmen are aware of the standards of quality, weight and measure that are used in evaluating the merchandise which they buy and sell. It is also possible to buy newspaper advertising on the basis of definite standards, namely, the information in the reports of the Audit Bureau of Circulations.

The A.B.C. is a cooperative, nonprofit association of 3,575 publishers, advertisers and advertising agencies. Its purpose is to provide advertisers with audited information about the circulation of its publisher members.

At regular intervals the A.B.C., of which this newspaper is a member, sends an experienced circulation auditor to make a thorough inspection and audit of our circulation records. The FACTS thus established are published in an A.B.C. audit report which tells you: How much circulation we have; where it goes; how obtained; how much people pay for our paper; and other FACTS that you need in order to KNOW what you get for your advertising money.

Why We Say--

If you are left in a lurch, you are suddenly left without a chance according to the use of the expression today. However, it started with the gambling game of "lurche," where if one player got all the points before the other started, it was termed as being, "left in the lurche" (or without a chance to play).

Wilson Goes Back

son's original remarks and called on him to retract or resign, said in Detroit: "I am pleased to learn that Mr. Wilson, after sober thought, recognizes that he made a serious mistake and that his remarks were most unfortunate."

"In the final analysis," Reuther added, "the American people will judge the concern of Mr. Wilson and the Republican administration by what they do rather than by what they say." He said no affirmative steps had been taken to assure full employment.

WILSON, ASKED on his return to Washington whether he regards the bird dog incident as closed, said, "I would think so." With a grin, he told newsmen "I'm not in the humor" to make any more campaign speeches. He said he hoped President Eisenhower "wasn't worried about it —he has enough to worry about."

Commentator Valentine Zorin of the Moscow Radio, ignoring Wilson's Chicago apology, devoted 400 words to "the scandal" he said had stemmed from Wilson's remarks. As monitored in London, the broadcast said:

"Wilson . . . attacked the American unemployed . . . by accusing them grossly and calling them—dogs . . .

"Wilson's attack . . . showed up the true attitude of the Washington politicians towards millions of people who are deprived of work by the American way of life."

IN ANOTHER zoological twist, an anonymous tipster phoned news offices here and recalled that Reuther had twice used the figure of speech "stir the animals up" in testimony before the Senate Labor Committee last January.

A check showed that the CIO president was appearing in opposition to an administration proposal to government-sponsored polls of workers on the question of striking. One of the times he used the phrase was when he said:

"If you really want to stir the animals up and have more strikes and more problems and more difficulty and more class antagonism, that is the shortest road to get it."

A CIO SPOKESMAN said a reading of the testimony "will clearly show that he was pleading against a return of the law of the jungle and the spirit of the jungle in collective bargaining."

Sen. Potter (R.-Mich.) commented in Grand Rapids, Mich.: "I am sure that Walter Reuther no more intended to classify people as animals than he knows that Charles Wilson . . . did not intend to compare people with dogs."

Land Has Remained Same

Since 1920, while U. S. population has increased about 51 per cent, U. S. population has increased about 51 per cent, U. S. crop land has remained at about 400 million acres.

HARRY P. SUSSIN of 353 Broadway, chiropractor, has announced the installation of a modern-type chiropractic X-ray equipment. The unit is designed to take precision full-spine X-ray plates. Manufactured by H. G. Fischer and Company, the unit was installed by Reiner-Bennett, Inc., of New York. Sussin has operated his local offices for about three years. (Freeman photo).

Ives Asks . . .

the main New York-to-Buffalo toll road.

In Salamanca and Olean, where there has been some unemployment, he said he would urge the State Commerce Department to "speed up" efforts to bring new industries there. New industry, he said, is the solution to unemployment problems.

ALSO IN JAMESTOWN, Ives assured dairymen he would fight any effort "to destroy the dairy industry" of the state and pledged support for the federal-state system of marketing orders regulating prices paid to milk producers.

The senator called the milk marketing orders "the proven method that my opponents would allow to be destroyed if they get their greedy hands on the government at Albany.

IN THE TV TALK last night, Ives declared labor laws should not be made "the football of politics" and charged "the Democrat politicians think more of labor's votes than of labor's well-being."

Yesterday Ives said he had found "apathy" toward the campaign in some upstate centers. The answer, he told a newsman, is "stir 'em up—get 'em stirred up and we'll be all right."

The GOP candidate declined to say which "upstate centers" he had in mind. But he expressed belief that a drop in registrations signified lack of interest in the election.

mittee may expect to finance the program. Kantrowitz said he hoped there would be a generous response by voluntary donations in order to make the work of the lighting committee easier.

The directors voted to back the Red Feather community chest program 100% and plans were discussed as to participation in the program.

With the trend toward development of shopping centers in suburban areas, the committee devoted some time to that problem and resolved that one of the greatest needs to combat this movement of diversion was assurance of good parking lots with easy availability.

It was disclosed that the Association officials had spoken to Mayor Frederick Stang in regard to that problem and suggested that a long range program be invoked with an eye to the future development of better parking facilities. It has been shown in the past that where shopping centers are provided outside the corporate limits of a city, real estate values in the city begin to sag to the detriment of the taxpayers of the city due to loss of revenue.

This matter has been taken under advisement by Mayor Stang, it was stated, and plans of a specific nature will be discussed later.

One thing the new flat-chested look has in common with the full-chested, it probably will leave us flat broke.

Wilson Goes Back

son's original remarks and called on him to retract or resign, said in Detroit: "I am pleased to learn that Mr. Wilson, after sober thought, recognizes that he made a serious mistake and that his remarks were most unfortunate."

"In the final analysis," Reuther added, "the American people will judge the concern of Mr. Wilson and the Republican administration by what they do rather than by what they say." He said no affirmative steps had been taken to assure full employment.

WILSON, ASKED on his return to Washington whether he regards the bird dog incident as closed, said, "I would think so." With a grin, he told newsmen "I'm not in the humor" to make any more campaign speeches. He said he hoped President Eisenhower "wasn't worried about it —he has enough to worry about."

Commentator Valentine Zorin of the Moscow Radio, ignoring Wilson's Chicago apology, devoted 400 words to "the scandal" he said had stemmed from Wilson's remarks. As monitored in London, the broadcast said:

"Wilson . . . attacked the American unemployed . . . by accusing them grossly and calling them—dogs . . .

"Wilson's attack . . . showed up the true attitude of the Washington politicians towards millions of people who are deprived of work by the American way of life."

IN ANOTHER zoological twist, an anonymous tipster phoned news offices here and recalled that Reuther had twice used the figure of speech "stir the animals up" in testimony before the Senate Labor Committee last January.

A check showed that the CIO president was appearing in opposition to an administration proposal to government-sponsored polls of workers on the question of striking. One of the times he used the phrase was when he said:

"If you really want to stir the animals up and have more strikes and more problems and more difficulty and more class antagonism, that is the shortest road to get it."

A CIO SPOKESMAN said a reading of the testimony "will clearly show that he was pleading against a return of the law of the jungle and the spirit of the jungle in collective bargaining."

Sen. Potter (R.-Mich.) commented in Grand Rapids, Mich.: "I am sure that Walter Reuther no more intended to classify people as animals than he knows that Charles Wilson . . . did not intend to compare people with dogs."

Land Has Remained Same

Since 1920, while U. S. population has increased about 51 per cent, U. S. population has increased about 51 per cent, U. S. crop land has remained at about 400 million acres.

HARRY P. SUSSIN of 353 Broadway, chiropractor, has announced the installation of a modern-type chiropractic X-ray equipment. The unit is designed to take precision full-spine X-ray plates. Manufactured by H. G. Fischer and Company, the unit was installed by Reiner-Bennett, Inc., of New York. Sussin has operated his local offices for about three years. (Freeman photo).

Ives Asks . . .

the main New York-to-Buffalo toll road.

In Salamanca and Olean, where there has been some unemployment, he said he would urge the State Commerce Department to "speed up" efforts to bring new industries there. New industry, he said, is the solution to unemployment problems.

ALSO IN JAMESTOWN, Ives assured dairymen he would fight any effort "to destroy the dairy industry" of the state and pledged support for the federal-state system of marketing orders regulating prices paid to milk producers.

The senator called the milk marketing orders "the proven method that my opponents would allow to be destroyed if they get their greedy hands on the government at Albany.

IN THE TV TALK last night, Ives declared labor laws should not be made "the football of politics" and charged "the Democrat politicians think more of labor's votes than of labor's wellbeing."

Yesterday Ives said he had found "apathy" toward the campaign in some upstate centers. The answer, he told a newsman, is "stir 'em up—get 'em stirred up and we'll be all right."

The GOP candidate declined to say which "upstate centers" he had in mind. But he expressed belief that a drop in registrations signified lack of interest in the election.

mittee may expect to finance the program. Kantrowitz said he hoped there would be a generous response by voluntary donations in order to make the work of the lighting committee easier.

The directors voted to back the Red Feather community chest program 100% and plans were discussed as to participation in the program.

With the trend toward development of shopping centers in suburban areas, the committee devoted some time to that problem and resolved that one of the greatest needs to combat this movement of diversion was assurance of good parking lots with easy availability.

It was disclosed that the Association officials had spoken to Mayor Frederick Stang in regard to that problem and suggested that a long range program be invoked with an eye to the future development of better parking facilities. It has been shown in the past that where shopping centers are provided outside the corporate limits of a city, real estate values in the city begin to sag to the detriment of the taxpayers of the city due to loss of revenue.

This matter has been taken under advisement by Mayor Stang, it was stated, and plans of a specific nature will be discussed later.

One thing the new flat-chested look has in common with the full-chested, it probably will leave us flat broke.

Hazel Howls . . .

It is composed of several officers and 50 men. All Myrtle Beach telephone lines were down.

"We're going to have considerable damage along the water front," Mayor Williams said. "That's usually followed by lots of looting."

The tropical storm, which wrought heavy damage and loss of life in Haiti Tuesday, struck the U. S. mainland a severe blow, but towering waves caused more damage along the coast than wind.

The Miami weather bureau, hurricane forecasting headquarters, reported in a 10 a. m. advisory that the storm center crossed the coastline a short distance east of Myrtle Beach at 9:15 a. m.

"Gale to hurricane force winds and extremely heavy rains will continue especially to the north and east of the center as the hurricane progresses northward across North Carolina and into Virginia during the day," the advisory said.

"ALL PRECAUTIONS should be continued against dangerous winds and abnormally high tides on the North Carolina coast and northward until the hurricane passes."

Thousands of beach homes were torn up and many homes and concession stands washed away.

Associated Press Photographer Rudy Faircloth reported from Myrtle Beach watching a virtually undamaged house with attached garage float majestically out to sea, its weather vane proudly turning.

Dr. Waldo H. Jones, hurricane warning officer at Myrtle Beach, estimated winds there at 100 to 120 miles an hour. He said tides were 9 to 11 feet above normal.

Far up the coast at Morehead City, N. C., streets were under water and waves lashed at the seawall protecting the hospital. The water was not expected to reach the hospital's ground floor.

Lawrence Cook, assistant police chief at Wrightsville Beach said most of the cottages along the water front there had been washed away. Three families were marooned in that area and the coast guard was sent to rescue them.

The hurricane winds spread across a path as much as 120 miles wide as they struck. An advisory said the forward speed of the storm was 25 to 30 miles an hour and it was expected to pick up speed as it progressed.

Communications and power lines were down in many areas. Small boats piled up on the shore.

Coast guardsmen evacuated 60 persons from Ocracoke Island homes on the North Carolina outer banks and were sheltering them in the Ocracoke lifeboat station, which is on higher ground.

Still Another Record Set

After reaching a record 88 for two successive days, the mercury yesterday dropped four points for a high of 84 at 2 p. m., another record for that date.

An unusual trend in the overnight temperatures was noted today which had a low of 68 at 6 a. m., to top the previous three days. On Oct. 12 and 13 the overnight low was 66, and on the 14th it was 65.

The mercury hit 74 by 10:30 a. m., today and appeared to be on its way for a fourth day of record-breaking temperatures. The high for Oct. 15 was 79 in 1947. The high for Oct. 14 was 78 in 1952.

Program Carries On

Several weeks ago there was an announcement made in the paper that Capt. and Mrs. Brant who have been in charge of the local work of the Volunteers of America would be transferred to Portland, Maine in the near future. Because of illness of incoming officers, this change has not taken place as yet. In the meantime, the work conducted by the Volunteers in this area has been conducted as usual. Letters were sent out to friends in this area and replies have been slow in coming in. It is hoped that those who received these letters will answer them as soon as possible. When the change takes place, definite announcement will be made.

Boycott Is . . .

direction of Gov. J. Caleb Boggs, and has been summoned for hearings Nov. 3. Maximum sentence under these charges is a $500 fine on each count, or a prison term if the fine is not paid.

Marvel's ruling was made on an appeal for reinstatement filed by the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People on behalf of the students and their parents.

The Milford school board was scheduled to meet today to decide whether to file exceptions to the decision. One source close to the school board said he didn't think they would.

Marvel did not specify in his decision when the students should return to class.

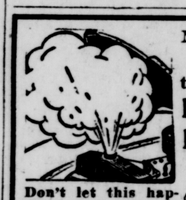

However, Louis L. Redding, attorney for the NAACP, said it would probably be the middle of next week before the children return to school.

Sentence Suspended

Daniel Hurley, 30, of Colonial Gardens, was arrested by Marilyn Hurley, his wife, last night on a third degree assault charge. He was given a suspended sentence of ten days in jail when he appeared today before City Judge Raymond J. Mino.

THE MARQUEE

T.V. — STAGE — RADIO — RECORDS — PEOPLE

By DICK KLEINER

"RECLINING FIGURE" is the first genuinely funny play of the Broadway season. Nothing earth-shattering, but some good laughs. Biggest surprise of the show is the excellent acting job turned in by Mike Wallace. Previously Mike's been strictly a CBS radio and TV employe, of the type referred to, for lack of a better word, as a "personality." He MC'd shows, sat on panels, interviewed other personalities, and generally made himself useful.

Now he turns up as a pretty good actor. Talent will out.

Mike Wallace's wife, the lovely Buff Cobb, went to the second night with Mike's mother. It was a thrill for both ladies. Buff said she really wasn't scared, just had a little "Mike fright."

Mike and Buff, incidentally, conduct a CBS-radio show called "Mike and Buff's Mail-Bag," on which they read interesting letters. One they haven't read, but maybe will soon, is the following, which they sent over for the fun of it. It's from a New York boy and reads:

"I have a problem. My mother. She cleans my room and is always throwing out valuable stuff. Please tell mothers NOT to clean boys' rooms! Make the boy clean the room himself. My mother just threw out a valuable stamp, a good dead starfish, and six bottle caps. My friends have the same trouble with their mothers who throw things out and are TOO CLEAN!"

"A Star Is Born" premiered at two New York theatres and a goodly crowd was there. A little too goodly. In fact, because you had to fight your way in. But it was worth it. Judy Garland is in good voice, and that's enough to guarantee a fine three hours. In this case, a star isn't born, she's made brighter.

Hazel Howls . . .

It is composed of several officers and 50 men. All Myrtle Beach telephone lines were down.

"We're going to have considerable damage along the water front," Mayor Williams said. "That's usually followed by lots of looting."

The tropical storm, which wrought heavy damage and loss of life in Haiti Tuesday, struck the U. S. mainland a severe blow, but towering waves caused more damage along the coast than wind.

The Miami weather bureau, hurricane forecasting headquarters, reported in a 10 a. m. advisory that the storm center crossed the coastline a short distance east of Myrtle Beach at 9:15 a. m.

"Gale to hurricane force winds and extremely heavy rains will continue especially to the north and east of the center as the hurricane progresses northward across North Carolina and into Virginia during the day," the advisory said.

"ALL PRECAUTIONS should be continued against dangerous winds and abnormally high tides on the North Carolina coast and northward until the hurricane passes."

Thousands of beach homes were torn up and many homes and concession stands washed away.

Associated Press Photographer Rudy Faircloth reported from Myrtle Beach watching a virtually undamaged house with attached garage float majestically out to sea, its weather vane proudly turning.

Dr. Waldo H. Jones, hurricane warning officer at Myrtle Beach, estimated winds there at 100 to 120 miles an hour. He said tides were 9 to 11 feet above normal.

Far up the coast at Morehead City, N. C., streets were under water and waves lashed at the seawall protecting the hospital. The water was not expected to reach the hospital's ground floor.

Lawrence Cook, assistant police chief at Wrightsville Beach said most of the cottages along the water front there had been washed away. Three families were marooned in that area and the coast guard was sent to rescue them.

The hurricane winds spread across a path as much as 120 miles wide as they struck. An advisory said the forward speed of the storm was 25 to 30 miles an hour and it was expected to pick up speed as it progressed.

Communications and power lines were down in many areas. Small boats piled up on the shore.

Coast guardsmen evacuated 60 persons from Ocracoke Island homes on the North Carolina outer banks and were sheltering them in the Ocracoke lifeboat station, which is on higher ground.

Still Another Record Set

After reaching a record 88 for two successive days, the mercury yesterday dropped four points for a high of 84 at 2 p. m., another record for that date.

An unusual trend in the overnight temperatures was noted today which had a low of 68 at 6 a. m., to top the previous three days. On Oct. 12 and 13 the overnight low was 66, and on the 14th it was 65.

The mercury hit 74 by 10:30 a. m., today and appeared to be on its way for a fourth day of record-breaking temperatures. The high for Oct. 15 was 79 in 1947. The high for Oct. 14 was 78 in 1952.

Boycott Is . . .

direction of Gov. J. Caleb Boggs, and has been summoned for hearings Nov. 3. Maximum sentence under these charges is a $500 fine on each count, or a prison term if the fine is not paid.

Marvel's ruling was made on an appeal for reinstatement filed by the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People on behalf of the students and their parents.

The Milford school board was scheduled to meet today to decide whether to file exceptions to the decision. One source close to the school board said he didn't think they would.

Marvel did not specify in his decision when the students should return to class.

However, Louis L. Redding, attorney for the NAACP, said it would probably be the middle of next week before the children return to school.

Sentence Suspended

Daniel Hurley, 30, of Colonial Gardens, was arrested by Marilyn Hurley, his wife, last night on a third degree assault charge. He was given a suspended sentence of ten days in jail when he appeared today before City Judge Raymond J. Mino.

Elias Howe invented the sewing machine.

Program Carries On

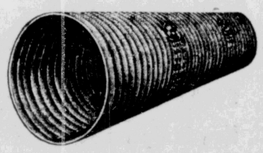

Several weeks ago there was an announcement made in the paper that Capt. and Mrs. Brant who have been in charge of the local work of the Volunteers of America would be transferred to Portland, Maine in the near future. Because of illness of incoming officers, this change has not taken place as yet. In the meantime, the work conducted by the Volunteers in this area has been conducted as usual. Letters were sent out to friends in this area and replies have been slow in coming in. It is hoped that those who received these letters will answer them as soon as possible. When the change takes place, definite announcement will be made.

By DICK KLEINER

"RECLINING FIGURE" is the first genuinely funny play of the Broadway season. Nothing earth-shattering, but some good laughs. Biggest surprise of the show is the excellent acting job turned in by Mike Wallace. Previously Mike's been strictly a CBS radio and TV employe, of the type referred to, for lack of a better word, as a "personality." He MC'd shows, sat on panels, interviewed other personalities, and generally made himself useful.

Now he turns up as a pretty good actor. Talent will out.

Mike Wallace's wife, the lovely Buff Cobb, went to the second night with Mike's mother. It was a thrill for both ladies. Buff said she really wasn't scared, just had a little "Mike fright."

Mike and Buff, incidentally, conduct a CBS-radio show called "Mike and Buff's Mail-Bag," on which they read interesting letters. One they haven't read, but maybe will soon, is the following, which they sent over for the fun of it. It's from a New York boy and reads:

"I have a problem. My mother. She cleans my room and is always throwing out valuable stuff. Please tell mothers NOT to clean boys' rooms! Make the boy clean the room himself. My mother just threw out a valuable stamp, a good dead starfish, and six bottle caps. My friends have the same trouble with their mothers who throw things out and are TOO CLEAN!"

"A Star Is Born" premiered at two New York theatres and a goodly crowd was there. A little too goodly. In fact, because you had to fight your way in. But it was worth it. Judy Garland is in good voice, and that's enough to guarantee a fine three hours. In this case, a star isn't born, she's made brighter.
